

The Crittenden Press.

VOLUME 15.

MARION, CRITTENDEN COUNTY, KENTUCKY, JUNE 6, 1895.

NUMBER 52

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report
Royal Baking Powder
ABSOLUTELY PURE

STARVED OUT.

Western Settlers Seeking Homes
In a Better Country.

Turning to The South.

Frankfort, Ky., June 2.—The South continues to attract the attention of people in the West and Northwest seeking a more favorable climate and with the proper effort on the part of its citizens Kentucky should receive a part of this immigration. A general movement from the arid region of Nebraska is indicated by a letter received here by Hon. C. J. Norwood, Inspector of Mines and Curator of the State Geological Department. The letter is from Stockville, in the southwestern part of Nebraska, under date of May 24, and it should be of interest to the people of this State. The writer says:

"One of the most dreadful droughts that have ever visited the Northwest seems apparently to be upon us. Many of the most enthusiastic men of our country have despaired and given up all hopes of raising any crop this year. We had a failure in 1893 and 1894 also, and now our people are placed in the most deplorable condition known in the history of our State. Our people are leaving as fast as due preparations can be made. Most of them are going Southwest. There is a large 'soldier' colony organization going into Georgia, that has membership of several thousand from this state; another of the same character going into Utah, starting from here in September or October next, while a third is just being formulated, going into Alabama and Mississippi. A representative of the last named colony left our county only a few days ago, to view the lands offered and if possible make a permanent organization."

"Many of our people do not wish to go so far south as Alabama or Mississippi, and as I was in correspondence with you last winter I have been enabled to elicit a deep interest with them in behalf of your State. Our people are mostly all Northern people, and are absent of the time; many of them through all these years of drought have been self-sustaining, until now they are almost penniless—the most wealthy have nearly come to a level with the poorest. As an agent in the sale of all kinds of school supplies I can safely say that you could not, from a personal knowledge, induce a better class into your country for the advancement of the public schools and the State generally."

"I have been requested by several citizens to write you at once and see what inducements you could be able with short notice to give a few hundred, or as many as might wish to join in moving to your State, with reference to land, free transportation for families, household goods, stock, etc. Also free transportation for a treating committee to go and return, etc. As a representative, in part, I am acting in behalf of many who must soon move to some other portion of the United States. Most of our people are farmers, while we have a few of various trades. I think many would object to going into a mountainous region, that was very rough, or too far from railroads; if possible, they want a healthy climate and good water. Their knowledge of farming would recline with proper cultivation and care almost any of the so-called worn-out farms of your State. I wish to know the prospect for fruit and farm products this year, also the price of improved and wild lands—Central and Southern Kentucky."

In speaking of the letter and the situation described, Mr. Norwood said: "I know from past correspondence with the author of the letter that the people of whom he writes are much interested in Kentucky. It is evident that it will be well worth our while to endeavor to secure some of the intending emigrants for this State. I will be glad, therefore, to hear from the immigration societies that have been formed in the various counties upon the question of character and prices of lands that are for sale, etc., and from individuals as well. I will be glad to receive lists of lands for sale, and any literature that has been issued."

The remains were taken to Eddyville, and laid beside those of Senator Machen, who died in 1893.

SOME PROMINENT WOMEN.

The Widows of Distinguished Men Who Reside in Washington.

Special to the PRESS.

WASHINGTON, June 3, '95.

The widow of James G. Blaine has been a figure in society at the Nations Capital of special interest during the past season. Although Mrs. Blaine is still in mourning for her distinguished husband, and in consequence does not go out in general society, yet she is found occasionally at the homes of close friends, and has made her appearance on several occasions at small companies. She attended the recent wedding of Miss Lester, the relations between the families have been, during recent years, quite intimate. When the Leisters came to this city to reside they leased the Blaine house on Dupont circle, which is near the home they have built and now occupy. At that time Mr. Blaine was in private life, and when he accepted office again he purchased the residence on Lafayette Square, which he fitted up for his use, and where his last days were spent.

As is well known that house has been torn down and a theatre building is being erected on the site. During the past winter Mrs. Blaine has been living in the big house on Dupont circle, the only members of the family with her being her son, James G. Blain, Jr., and Miss Abigail Dodge (Gardiner Hamilton). A daughter, Mrs. Truxton Neal, however, has her home in this city, while the other daughter, Mrs. Damrosch, lives in New York. It is understood that Mrs. Blaine finds the house too large, and does not intend to occupy it for another season. She proposes to lease it furnished, and it is said that Mr. Westinghouse, the inventor of the air brake, contemplates occupying it next year.

The widow of another distinguished man, Mrs. U. S. Grant, has been spending the greater part of the winter in Washington, and has been living with her daughter, Mrs. Sartoris, who occupies and leases house. While Mrs. Grant's plans for the future have not been fully decided upon, yet it is understood that she intends to make her permanent home here, and has been looking around for suitable house. It seems to be now pretty certain that Mrs. Sartoris will marry again, the fortunate man, according to report, being Gen. Kyd Douglas, of Maryland. While Gen. Douglas is a resident of Maryland, yet it is stated he will make his home here after marriage.

As is well known the widow of Gen. Logan continued her residence in this city after the death of her husband, and she has always been an active and prominent figure in social and charitable circles. Her home on the heights overlooking the city is one of the points of interest to visitors, and those who gain admission can examine the extensive collection which she has made of mementoes connected with the career of her distinguished husband. In fact she some time ago had an addition built to the house, where there is a room with a lofty ceiling, and here are collected most of her precious relics. The presence of these and other women who might be mentioned, lend an additional interest to the Nation's Capital. They are living representatives of much that is important in the history of this country, and they are not only of attention but of respect and affection from thousands of citizens who admire the lives and revere the memories of their husbands.

It was the purpose of her son and daughter to go with her to the son's home in Lyon county on Thursday, and Mrs. Machen and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Sublette, arose early to begin preparations for the journey. Mrs. Minnie is a very old lady, but was busy about the home and gave but slight heed to her daughter, who at about five o'clock left the house and went to an outbuilding in the rear of the premises. It was there she was discovered by her mother shortly after five, lying prone upon the floor—in a faint, as the mother supposed, who hurriedly summoned Frank to help his mother into the house. When the poor frail body was lifted from the floor it was discovered that a ball from a .38 caliber pistol had ploughed its cruel way from the temple to the long troubled brain and that death must have supervened almost instantly.

The criticism is sometimes made that while this honor has been paid to men renowned in war, those who have given their time and their services to their country in other capacities have been neglected. There are now

(From the Cadiz Telephone)
Trigg County's New Court-house.

CARLISLE IN JULY, 1895.

HON. W. M. SHURT, Mayfield, KY.
DEAR SIR: Your favor of the 13th instant is just received. Every Democrat in the Senate voted against the silver bill as it was finally amended and reported by the conference committee, because we believe it was worse than the existing law. If the Farmers Alliance of Graves county believes that this Republican measure which substantially stops the coining of the silver dollar after one year, is better than the Democratic law of 1878, they are of course entitled to their opinion, but I do not agree with them.

Frankfort, Ky., June 1.—The decision of the Court of Appeals of the bank tax case was rendered today, and in spite of the tips that had been given out, it caused considerable surprise. People generally had come to the conclusion that the court was still undecided, when a full bench met and handed in the decision, which was written by Chief Justice Tryon and assented to by Judges Eastin, Grace and Hazleberg, and in effect declares that the banks have a vested right under the Hewitt law, which requires them to pay seventy-five cents on the $100 of capital stock to the State and relieves them of all county, district, and municipal taxation. The result is consequently favorable to the State almost doubling its revenues from this source, but is adverse to the counties and cities, which will receive no taxes from the banks. It will result in bringing the total receipts of the State Treasury from banks up to about $360,000 per annum, which will also be paid for last year, and will within a few months go far towards relieving the present financial embarrassment.

The minority opinion was written by Judge Paynter, and signed by Judges Lewis and Guffy, and holds that the terms of the original contract specified that it could be repealed at the pleasure of the State, and that they are sustained by decisions of the highest State court and the Supreme Court of the United States.

The bankers are in high feather over the decision, while those who hold the contrary view are depressed. The latter declare that the action of the court will upset the State system of taxation. One prominent attorney went so far as to say that it was a severe blow to the civil liberties of the people.

Important to Road Overseers.

In the circuit court last Tuesday Judge Linn made an important ruling which will at once dispel the prevailing idea that overseers of public roads are proceeded against by indictment for neglect of duty. The statutes now prescribe that prosecutions under this head shall be by warrant issued by the Judge of the quarterly court, and returned before him and disposed of. So the custom of working public roads just before circuit court is a useless one, as overseers can be proceeded against at any time. So look well to your roads, citizens, and that she is a member of a very prominent family. It is probable that the last has been heard of the case, so far as the courts are concerned.

As is well known the widow of Gen. Logan continued her residence in this city after the death of her husband, and she has always been an active and prominent figure in social and charitable circles. Her home on the heights overlooking the city is one of the points of interest to visitors, and those who gain admission can examine the extensive collection which she has made of mementoes connected with the career of her distinguished husband. In fact she some time ago had an addition built to the house, where there is a room with a lofty ceiling, and here are collected most of her precious relics. The presence of these and other women who might be mentioned, lend an additional interest to the Nation's Capital. They are living representatives of much that is important in the history of this country, and they are not only of attention but of respect and affection from thousands of citizens who admire the lives and revere the memories of their husbands.

Another woman whose husband bore a prominent part in the late war, and who is regarded with affectionate interest, is the widow of General Phil Sheridan. It was here that Sheridan had his home and it was here that he died. Mrs. Sheridan was left with quite a family of young children, and the years of her widowhood are being passed in devoted attention to their training and education. It is probable that before many years have passed the valuable public services of all these men will be commemorated by the erection in this city of some suitable monument. A great many of the heroes of the late war have been honored in this way, and arrangements have been perfected for a statue to General Logan to be placed in this city.

The criticism is sometimes made that while this honor has been paid to men renowned in war, those who have given their time and their services to their country in other capacities have been neglected. There are now

To those living in malarial districts Tutt's Pills are indispensable, they keep the system in perfect order and are an absolute cure for sick headache, indigestion, malaria, torpid liver, constipation and all bilious diseases.

Tutt's Liver Pills

WOOL CARDING.

The old reliable carder is ready and doing the best of work; so bring your wool and get it carded, for the fifth pound toll or seven cents per pound each, and bring one pound of grease, for every eight pounds of wool; and I do feel truly thankful to my old patrons for all past favors, though these times find me as thankful as ever before. All work guaranteed. Respectfully,

S. J. Mitchell,

Salem, Ky.

Having bought out the Geo. L. Rankin stock of goods at Weston, I am selling the old stock out regardless of cost. I have put in a new stock of goods and am selling them at rock bottom prices and ask all to come and see me. I have everything kept in a country store—dry goods, groceries, farming implements of every kind. You will find Mr. G. L. Rankin willing to wain on you and sell you goods for cash at lowest prices, and I make a specialty of Ohio river salt, which I am selling at 81 per bushel. Call and see me before buying elsewhere.

Respectfully,
E. H. PORTER,
Weston, Ky.

IF YOU OWE US,

We now say to you with the kind of feeling, but in all earnestness, that we must have the money at once. It will be entirely useless for any one to stay for more time, as it is impossible for us to extend further accommodation in that direction. This is no longer a matter of friendship but of absolute necessity and of business with us. We must have the money you owe us in order to pay our own debts. Mr. George M. Crider has charge of all our notes and accounts and he is instructed to pass no one, but collect from all alike.

Prompt action on your part will save you money.

Yours truly,
PIERCE & SON,

THE MOST remarkable cures on record have been accomplished by Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is unequalled for all BLOOD DISEASES.

Are You Ready For the Harvest? 1895.

There's only one way to get ready so that you can be sure that you are ready—and I am ready to get you ready with the World-Beating,

WORLD

BEST IN THE . . .

WORLD

Because

Most Durably Built,
Lightest in Draft, Greatest in Capacity, Simplest in Construction.

All Competition Staid Away from the McCormick in the World's Fair Tests

I might to-day be selling a line of so-called "cheap" machines at a price which would still be high, but prefer to sell the high-value McCormick at a price which experience will most assuredly prove is low. Glad to show my friends these machines at any time. Come in and see them.

I also represent the best threshers, engines, saw mills, corn mills, corn crushers, cane mills, hay presses, etc., direct from the manufacturers, and keep on hand machinery repairs and supplies. My biader twine is new and See McCormick sign.

Yours Truly,

H. F. RAY.

Wool Carding!

o o o o o

The undersigned desires to say that he is now prepared to Card Wool. Having had twenty years experience in wool carding and my machine being in first class order I feel safe in saying that I can and will do satisfactory work. Parties living at a distance can club together and send wool in hundred pound lots or over. I will pay freight one way. Mark each parcel of wool with owners name and say cash or toll. Send one pound of clean lard for eight pounds of wool.

Very Respectfully,

R. N. DOSS,
MARION, KY.

No. Deut. Votes. Delegates.
Marion No. 1, 60 1
Marion No. 2, 91 2
Marion No. 3, 76 2
Marion No. 4, 84 2
Dycusburg, 132 3
Union, 91 2
Sheridan, 63 1
Tolu, 112 2
Fords Ferry, 84 2
Bella Mine, 193 3
Piney, 156 3
P. S. Maxwell,
Ch'dem. Co. Com.

Last Call.

I have waited as long as I can and have instructed my deputies to levy on all who owe me taxes for the year 1894. Govern yourself accordingly, for there will be no exceptions whatever.

Jno. T. Franks, B. C. C.

Dear Friends, I hope you will excuse me for troubling you, but we make working orders to order.

The Crittenden Press.

VOLUME 15.

MARION, CRITTENDEN COUNTY, KENTUCKY, JUNE 6, 1895.

NUMBER 52

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U.S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder ABSOLUTELY PURE

STARVED OUT.

A BIG DAY AT STURGIS.

Western Settlers Seeking Homes
In a Better Country.

Turning to The South.

Frankfort, Ky., June 2.—The South continues to attract the attention of people in the West and Northwest seeking a more favorable climate and with the proper effort on the part of its citizens Kentucky should receive a part of this immigration. A general movement from the and region of Nebraska is indicated by a letter received here by Hon. C. J. Norwood, Inspector of Mines and Curator of the State Geological Department. The letter is from Stockville, in the southwestern part of Nebraska, under date of May 24, and it should be of interest to the people of this State. The writer says:

"One of the most direful droughts that have ever visited the Northwest seems apparently to be upon us. Many of the most enthusiastic men of our country have despaired and given up all hopes of raising any crop this year. We had a failure in 1890 and 1894 also, and now our people are placed in the most deplorable condition known in the history of our State. Our people are leaving as fast as due preparations can be made. Most of them are going Southwest. There is a large southern colony organization going into Georgia, that has a membership of several thousand from this state; another of the same character going into Utah, starting from here in September or October next, while a third is just being formulated, going into Alabama and Mississippi. A representative of the last named colony left our county only a few days ago, to view the lands offered and if possible make a permanent organization."

"Many of our people do not wish to go so far south as Alabama or Mississippi, and as I was in correspondence with you last winter I have been enabled to elicit a deep interest with them in behalf of your State. Our people are mostly all Northern people, and are abreast of the time; many of them through all these years of drought have been self-sustaining, until now they are almost penniless—the most wealthy have nearly come to a level with the poorest. As an agent in the sale of all kinds of school supplies I can safely say that you could not, from a personal knowledge, induce a better class into your country for the advancement of the public schools and the State generally."

"I have been requested by several citizens to write you at once, and see what inducements you could be able with short notice to give a few hundred, or as many as might wish to join in moving to your State, with reference to land, free transportation for families, household goods, stock, etc. Also free transportation for a treating committee to go and return, etc. As a representative, in part, I am acting in behalf of many who must soon move to some other portion of the United States. Most of our people are farmers, while we have a few of various trades. I think many would object to going into a mountainous region, that was very rough, or too far from railroads; if possible, they want a healthy climate and good water. Their knowledge of farming would reclaim with proper cultivation and care almost any of the so-called worn-out farms of your State. I wish to know the prospect for fruit and farm products this year, also the price of improved and wild lands—Central and Southern Kentucky."

In speaking of the letter and the situation described, Mr. Norwood said: "I know from past correspondence with the author of the letter that the people of whom he writes are much interested in Kentucky. It is evident that it will be well worth our while to endeavor to seem some of the intending emigrants for this state. I will be glad, therefore, to hear from the immigration societies that have been formed in the various counties upon the question of character and prices of lands that are for sale, etc., and from individuals as well. I will be glad to receive lists of lands for sale, and any literature that has been issued."

Widow of the Late Senator Machen Commits Suicide.

On the 23d of May Mrs. W. B. Machen, widow of the late W. B. Machen, committed suicide at the home of her sister at Clinton. The Clinton Democrat says:

Last fall, desiring to give her daughter Marjorie the advantages of our schools, Mrs. Machen came to Clinton and for several months before her death she lived with her sister, Mrs. Mollie Sublette. Ill health caused her mind to give way, and during the almost entire period of her residence here she was afflicted with dementia of a more or less violent type. On account of the state of her own health Mrs. Sublette found the care of her sister a severe burden, and it was decided that Mrs. Machen should go to Eddyville and spend the summer with her son, Frank Machen. It is thought that the invalid feared they were going to take her to an asylum, and that she forestalled them by taking her own life. The pistol with which she shot herself was a No. 38, and she got it out of her son's valise. Beside her son Frank and daughter Marjorie, she had other sons and a married daughter, Mrs. Sayres, of Montgomery, who visited her a short time ago.

It was the purpose of her son and daughter to go with her to the son's home in Lyon county on Thursday, and Mrs. Machen and her mother, Mrs. Minnins, arose early to begin preparations for the journey. Mrs. Minnins is a very old lady, but was busy about the house and gave but slight heed to her daughter, who at about five o'clock left the house and went to an outbuilding in the rear of the premises. It was there she was discovered by her mother shortly after five, lying prone upon the floor,—in a faint, as the mother supposed, who hurriedly summoned Frank to help his mother into the house. When the poor frail body was lifted from the floor it was discovered that a ball from a .38 caliber pistol had ploughed its cruel way from the temple to the brain and that death must have supervened almost instantly.

The remains were taken to Eddyville, and laid beside those of Senator Machen, who died in 1893.

SOME PROMINENT WOMEN.

The Widows of Distinguished Men Who Reside in Washington.

Special to THE PRESS.

WASHINGTON, June 3, '95.

From the committee having the matter in charge, we have received the following:

We present you herewith a programme of exercises for the laying of the corner stone of the college in Sturgis June 11, proximo. The intention does not go out in general society, yet she is found occasionally at the homes of close friends, and has made her appearance on several occasions at small companies. She attended the recent wedding of Miss Leiter, as the relations between the families have been, during recent years, quite intimate. When the Leiters came to this city to reside they leased the Blaine house on Dupont circle, which is near the home of James G. Blaine, the statesman.

We expect five hundred Masons to be present. The Grand Master of the State will officiate in laying the stone. All benevolent orders, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Knights of the Golden Circle, are invited to be present. Several hundred children will sing in line and sing for the occasion. A chorus of one hundred adult voices will sing the Hallelujah chorus from the oratorio of Handel's Messiah.

Warren's Band of Evansville have been engaged. This is the famous band which took the first premium at New Orleans when one hundred bands competed for this prize.

Speakers of note from a distance will address the audience.

PROGRAMME

1. Children.
 2. Warren's Brass Band
 3. Benevolent Societies.
 4. Speakers and Committees.
 5. Chorus.
 6. Citizens.
- ORDER OF EXERCISES.
1. Praise God from Whom, etc.
 2. Prayer.
 3. "My Country 'Tis of Thee."
 4. Oration.
 5. Hallelujah Chorus.
 6. Laying Corner Stone.
 7. Music by Band.
 8. Dinner.

SHOT HERSELF.

On the 23d of May Mrs. W. B. Machen, widow of the late W. B. Machen, committed suicide at the home of her sister at Clinton. The Clinton Democrat says:

As is well known the widow of Gen Logan continued her residence in this city after the death of her husband, and she has always been an active and prominent figure in social and charitable circles. Her home on the heights overlooking the city is one of the points of interest to visitors, and those who gain admission can examine the extensive collection which she has made of mementoes connected with the career of her distinguished husband. In fact she some time ago had an addition built to the house, where there is a room with a lofty ceiling, and here are collected most of her precious relics.

The presence of these and other women who might be mentioned, lend an additional interest to the Nation's Capital. They are living representatives of much that is important in the history of this country, and they are not only of attention but of respect and affection from thousands of citizens who admire the lives and revere the memories of their husbands.

Another woman whose husband bore a prominent part in the late war, and who is regarded with affectionate interest, is the widow of General Phil Sheridan. It was here that Sheridan had his home and it was here that he died. Mrs. Sheridan was left with a family of young children, and the years of her widowhood are being passed in devoted attention to their training and education. It is probable that before many years have passed the valuable public services of all these men will be commemorated by the erection in this city of some suitable monument. A great many of the heroes of the late war have been honored in this way, and arrangements have been perfected for a statue to General Logan to be placed in this city.

The criticism is sometimes made that while this hour has been paid to men renowned in war, those who have given their time and their services to their country in other capacities have been neglected. There are now

as well known the widow of Gen Logan continued her residence in this city after the death of her husband, and she has always been an active and prominent figure in social and charitable circles. Her home on the heights overlooking the city is one of the points of interest to visitors, and those who gain admission can examine the extensive collection which she has made of mementoes connected with the career of her distinguished husband. In fact she some time ago had an addition built to the house, where there is a room with a lofty ceiling, and here are collected most of her precious relics.

The presence of these and other women who might be mentioned, lend an additional interest to the Nation's Capital. They are living representatives of much that is important in the history of this country, and they are not only of attention but of respect and affection from thousands of citizens who admire the lives and revere the memories of their husbands.

Another woman whose husband bore a prominent part in the late war, and who is regarded with affectionate interest, is the widow of General Phil Sheridan. It was here that Sheridan had his home and it was here that he died. Mrs. Sheridan was left with a family of young children, and the years of her widowhood are being passed in devoted attention to their training and education. It is probable that before many years have passed the valuable public services of all these men will be commemorated by the erection in this city of some suitable monument. A great many of the heroes of the late war have been honored in this way, and arrangements have been perfected for a statue to General Logan to be placed in this city.

The criticism is sometimes made that while this hour has been paid to men renowned in war, those who have given their time and their services to their country in other capacities have been neglected. There are now

as well known the widow of Gen Logan continued her residence in this city after the death of her husband, and she has always been an active and prominent figure in social and charitable circles. Her home on the heights overlooking the city is one of the points of interest to visitors, and those who gain admission can examine the extensive collection which she has made of mementoes connected with the career of her distinguished husband. In fact she some time ago had an addition built to the house, where there is a room with a lofty ceiling, and here are collected most of her precious relics.

The presence of these and other women who might be mentioned, lend an additional interest to the Nation's Capital. They are living representatives of much that is important in the history of this country, and they are not only of attention but of respect and affection from thousands of citizens who admire the lives and revere the memories of their husbands.

Another woman whose husband bore a prominent part in the late war, and who is regarded with affectionate interest, is the widow of General Phil Sheridan. It was here that Sheridan had his home and it was here that he died. Mrs. Sheridan was left with a family of young children, and the years of her widowhood are being passed in devoted attention to their training and education. It is probable that before many years have passed the valuable public services of all these men will be commemorated by the erection in this city of some suitable monument. A great many of the heroes of the late war have been honored in this way, and arrangements have been perfected for a statue to General Logan to be placed in this city.

The criticism is sometimes made that while this hour has been paid to men renowned in war, those who have given their time and their services to their country in other capacities have been neglected. There are now

as well known the widow of Gen Logan continued her residence in this city after the death of her husband, and she has always been an active and prominent figure in social and charitable circles. Her home on the heights overlooking the city is one of the points of interest to visitors, and those who gain admission can examine the extensive collection which she has made of mementoes connected with the career of her distinguished husband. In fact she some time ago had an addition built to the house, where there is a room with a lofty ceiling, and here are collected most of her precious relics.

The presence of these and other women who might be mentioned, lend an additional interest to the Nation's Capital. They are living representatives of much that is important in the history of this country, and they are not only of attention but of respect and affection from thousands of citizens who admire the lives and revere the memories of their husbands.

Another woman whose husband bore a prominent part in the late war, and who is regarded with affectionate interest, is the widow of General Phil Sheridan. It was here that Sheridan had his home and it was here that he died. Mrs. Sheridan was left with a family of young children, and the years of her widowhood are being passed in devoted attention to their training and education. It is probable that before many years have passed the valuable public services of all these men will be commemorated by the erection in this city of some suitable monument. A great many of the heroes of the late war have been honored in this way, and arrangements have been perfected for a statue to General Logan to be placed in this city.

The criticism is sometimes made that while this hour has been paid to men renowned in war, those who have given their time and their services to their country in other capacities have been neglected. There are now

as well known the widow of Gen Logan continued her residence in this city after the death of her husband, and she has always been an active and prominent figure in social and charitable circles. Her home on the heights overlooking the city is one of the points of interest to visitors, and those who gain admission can examine the extensive collection which she has made of mementoes connected with the career of her distinguished husband. In fact she some time ago had an addition built to the house, where there is a room with a lofty ceiling, and here are collected most of her precious relics.

The presence of these and other women who might be mentioned, lend an additional interest to the Nation's Capital. They are living representatives of much that is important in the history of this country, and they are not only of attention but of respect and affection from thousands of citizens who admire the lives and revere the memories of their husbands.

Another woman whose husband bore a prominent part in the late war, and who is regarded with affectionate interest, is the widow of General Phil Sheridan. It was here that Sheridan had his home and it was here that he died. Mrs. Sheridan was left with a family of young children, and the years of her widowhood are being passed in devoted attention to their training and education. It is probable that before many years have passed the valuable public services of all these men will be commemorated by the erection in this city of some suitable monument. A great many of the heroes of the late war have been honored in this way, and arrangements have been perfected for a statue to General Logan to be placed in this city.

The criticism is sometimes made that while this hour has been paid to men renowned in war, those who have given their time and their services to their country in other capacities have been neglected. There are now

as well known the widow of Gen Logan continued her residence in this city after the death of her husband, and she has always been an active and prominent figure in social and charitable circles. Her home on the heights overlooking the city is one of the points of interest to visitors, and those who gain admission can examine the extensive collection which she has made of mementoes connected with the career of her distinguished husband. In fact she some time ago had an addition built to the house, where there is a room with a lofty ceiling, and here are collected most of her precious relics.

The presence of these and other women who might be mentioned, lend an additional interest to the Nation's Capital. They are living representatives of much that is important in the history of this country, and they are not only of attention but of respect and affection from thousands of citizens who admire the lives and revere the memories of their husbands.

Another woman whose husband bore a prominent part in the late war, and who is regarded with affectionate interest, is the widow of General Phil Sheridan. It was here that Sheridan had his home and it was here that he died. Mrs. Sheridan was left with a family of young children, and the years of her widowhood are being passed in devoted attention to their training and education. It is probable that before many years have passed the valuable public services of all these men will be commemorated by the erection in this city of some suitable monument. A great many of the heroes of the late war have been honored in this way, and arrangements have been perfected for a statue to General Logan to be placed in this city.

The criticism is sometimes made that while this hour has been paid to men renowned in war, those who have given their time and their services to their country in other capacities have been neglected. There are now

as well known the widow of Gen Logan continued her residence in this city after the death of her husband, and she has always been an active and prominent figure in social and charitable circles. Her home on the heights overlooking the city is one of the points of interest to visitors, and those who gain admission can examine the extensive collection which she has made of mementoes connected with the career of her distinguished husband. In fact she some time ago had an addition built to the house, where there is a room with a lofty ceiling, and here are collected most of her precious relics.

The presence of these and other women who might be mentioned, lend an additional interest to the Nation's Capital. They are living representatives of much that is important in the history of this country, and they are not only of attention but of respect and affection from thousands of citizens who admire the lives and revere the memories of their husbands.

Another woman whose husband bore a prominent part in the late war, and who is regarded with affectionate interest, is the widow of General Phil Sheridan. It was here that Sheridan had his home and it was here that he died. Mrs. Sheridan was left with a family of young children, and the years of her widowhood are being passed in devoted attention to their training and education. It is probable that before many years have passed the valuable public services of all these men will be commemorated by the erection in this city of some suitable monument. A great many of the heroes of the late war have been honored in this way, and arrangements have been perfected for a statue to General Logan to be placed in this city.

The criticism is sometimes made that while this hour has been paid to men renowned in war, those who have given their time and their services to their country in other capacities have been neglected. There are now

as well known the widow of Gen Logan continued her residence in this city after the death of her husband, and she has always been an active and prominent figure in social and charitable circles. Her home on the heights overlooking the city is one of the points of interest to visitors, and those who gain admission can examine the extensive collection which she has made of mementoes connected with the career of her distinguished husband. In fact she some time ago had an addition built to the house, where there is a room with a lofty ceiling, and here are collected most of her precious relics.

The presence of these and other women who might be mentioned, lend an additional interest to the Nation's Capital. They are living representatives of much that is important in the history of this country, and they are not only of attention but of respect and affection from thousands of citizens who admire the lives and revere the memories of their husbands.

Another woman whose husband bore a prominent part in the late war, and who is regarded with affectionate interest, is the widow of General Phil Sheridan. It was here that Sheridan had his home and it was here that he died. Mrs. Sheridan was left with a family of young children, and the years of her widowhood are being passed in devoted attention to their training and education. It is probable that before many years have passed the valuable public services of all these men will be commemorated by the erection in this city of some suitable monument. A great many of the heroes of the late war have been honored in this way, and arrangements have been perfected for a statue to General Logan to be placed in this city.

The criticism is sometimes made that while this hour has been paid to men renowned in war, those who have given their time and their services to their country in other capacities have been neglected. There are now

as well known the widow of Gen Logan continued her residence in this city after the death of her husband, and she has always been an active and prominent figure in social and charitable circles. Her home on the heights overlooking the city is one of the points of interest to visitors, and those who gain admission can examine the extensive collection which she has made of mementoes connected with the career of her distinguished husband. In fact she some time ago had an addition built to the house, where there is a room with a lofty ceiling, and here are collected most of her precious relics.

The presence of these and other women who might be mentioned, lend an additional interest to the Nation's Capital. They are living representatives of much that is important in the history of this country, and they are not only of attention but of respect and affection from thousands of citizens who admire the lives and revere the memories of their husbands.

Another woman whose husband bore a prominent part in the late war, and who is regarded with affectionate interest, is the widow of General Phil Sheridan. It was here that Sheridan had his home and it was here that he died. Mrs. Sheridan was left with a family of young children, and the years of her widowhood are being passed in devoted attention to their training and education. It is probable that before many years have passed the valuable public services of all these men will be commemorated by the erection in this city of some suitable monument. A great many of the heroes of the late war have been honored in this way, and arrangements have been perfected for a statue to General Logan to be placed in this city.

The criticism is sometimes made that while this hour has been paid to men renowned in war, those who have given their time and their services to their country in other capacities have been neglected. There are now

as well known the widow of Gen Logan continued her residence in this city after the death of her husband, and she has always been an active and prominent figure in social and charitable circles. Her home on the heights overlooking the city is one of the points of interest to visitors, and those who gain admission can examine the extensive collection which she has made of mementoes connected with the career of her distinguished husband. In fact she some time ago had an addition built to the house, where there is a room with a lofty ceiling, and here are collected most of her precious relics.

The presence of these and other women who might be mentioned, lend an additional interest to the Nation's Capital. They are living representatives of much that is important in the history of this country, and they are not only of attention but of respect and affection from thousands of citizens who admire the lives and revere the memories of their husbands.

Another woman whose husband bore a prominent part in the late war, and who is regarded with affectionate interest, is the widow of General Phil Sheridan. It was here that Sheridan had his home and it was here that he

The Crittenden Press.

VOLUME 15.

MARION, CRITTENDEN COUNTY, KENTUCKY, JUNE 6, 1895.

NUMBER 52

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U.S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder ABSOLUTELY PURE

STARVED OUT.

A BIG DAY AT STURGES.

Western Settlers Seeking Homes
In a Better Country.

Turning to the South.

Frankfort, Ky., June 2.—The South continues to attract the attention of people in the West and Northwest seeking a more favorable climate and with the proper effort on the part of its citizens Kentucky should receive a part of this immigration. A general movement from the arid region of Nebraska is indicated by a letter received here by Hon. C. J. Norwood, Inspector of Mines and Captain of the State Geological Department. The letter is from Stockville, in the southwestern part of Nebraska, under date of May 24, and it should be of interest to the people of this State. The writer says:

"One of the most direful droughts that have ever visited the Northwest seems apparently to be upon us. Many of the most enthusiastic men of our country have despaired and given up all hopes of raising any crop this year. We had a failure in 1893 and 1894 also, and now our people are placed in the most deplorable condition known in the history of our State. Our people are leaving fast as due preparations can be made. Most of them are going Southwest. There is a large soldiers' colony organization going into Georgia, that has a membership of several thousand from this state; another of the same character going into Utah, starting from here in September or October next; while a third is just being formulated, going into Alabama and Mississippi. A representative of the last named colony left our county only a few days ago, to view the lands offered and if possible make a permanent organization."

"Many of our people do not wish to go so far south as Alabama or Mississippi, and as I was in correspondence with you last winter I have been enabled to elicit a deep interest with them in behalf of your State. Our people are mostly all Northern people, and are abreast of the time; many of them through all these years of drought have been self-sustaining, until now they are almost penniless—the most wealthy have nearly come to a level with the poorest. As an agent in the sale of all kinds of school supplies I can safely say that you could not, from a personal knowledge, induce a better class into your country for the advancement of the public schools and the State generally."

"I have been requested by several citizens to write you at once and see what inducements you could be able with short notice to give a few hundred, or as many as might wish to join in moving to your State, with reference to land, free transportation for families, household goods, stock, etc. Also free transportation for a treating committee to go and return, etc. As a representative, in part, I am acting in behalf of many who must soon move to some other portion of the United States. Most of our people are farmers, while we have a few of various trades. I think many would object to going into a mountainous region, that was very rough, or too far from railroads; if possible, they want a healthy climate and good water. Their knowledge of farming would reclaim with proper cultivation and care almost any of the so-called worn-out farms of your State. I wish to know the prospect for fruit and farm products this year, also the price of improved and wild lands—Central and Southern Kentucky."

In speaking of the letter and the situation described, Mr. Norwood said: "I know from past correspondence with the author of the letter that the people of whom he writes are much interested in Kentucky. It is evident that it will be well worth our while to endeavor to secure some of the intending emigrants for this State. I will be glad, therefore, to hear from the immigration societies that have been formed in the various counties upon the question of character and prices of lands that are for sale, etc., and from individuals as well. I will be glad to receive lists of lands for sale, and any literature that has been issued."

The remains were taken to Eddyville, and laid beside those of Senator Machen, who died in 1893.

SOME PROMINENT WOMEN.

The Widows of Distinguished Men Who Reside in Washington.

Special to the Press.

WASHINGTON, June 3, '95.
The widow of James G. Blaine has been a figure in society at the Nations Capital of special interest during the past season. Although Mrs. Blaine is still in mourning for her distinguished husband, and in consequence does not go out in general society, yet she is found occasionally at the homes of close friends, and has made her appearance on several occasions at small companies. She attended the recent wedding of Miss Leiter, as the relations between the families have been, during recent years, quite intimate. When the Leiters came to this city to reside they leased the Blaine house on Dupont circle, which is near the houses they have built and now occupy. At that time Mr. Blaine was in private life, and when he accepted office again he purchased the residence on Lafayette Square, which he fitted up for his use, and where his last days were spent.

As is well known that house has been torn down and a theatre building is being erected on the site. During the past winter Mrs. Blaine has been living in the big house on Dupont circle, the only members of the family with her being her son, James G. Blain, Jr., and Miss Abigail Dodge (Gail Hamilton). A daughter, Mrs. Truxton Beal, however, has her home in this city, while the other daughter, Mrs. Damrosch, lives in New York. It is understood that Mrs. Blaine finds the house too large, and does not intend to occupy it for another season. She proposes to lease it furnished, and it is said that Mr. Westinghouse, the inventor of the air brake, contemplates occupying it next year.

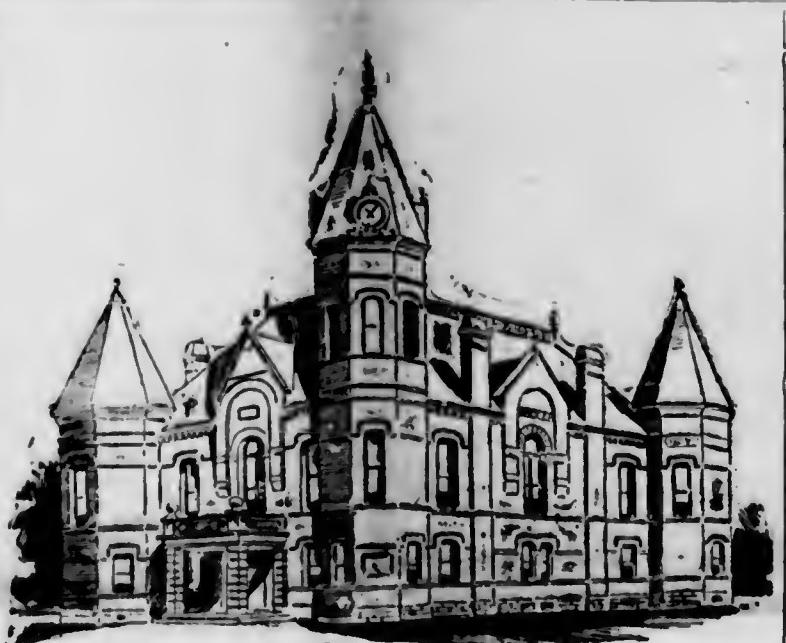

The widow of another distinguished man, Mrs. U. S. Grant, has been spending the greater part of the winter in Washington, and has been living with her daughter, Mrs. Sartoris, who occupies and leases house. While Mrs. Grant's plans for the future have not been fully decided upon, yet it is understood that she intends to make her permanent home here, and has been looking around for a suitable house. It seems to be now pretty certain that Mrs. Sartoris will marry again, the fortunate man, according to report, being Gen. Kyd Douglas, of Maryland. While Gen. Douglas is a resident of Maryland, yet it is stated he will make his home here after marriage.

As is well known the widow of Gen. Logan continued her residence in this city after the death of her husband, and she has always been an active and prominent figure in social and charitable circles. Her home on the heights overlooking the city is one of the points of interest to visitors, and those who gain admission can examine the extensive collection which she has made of mementos connected with the career of her distinguished husband. In fact she some time ago had an addition built to the house, where there is a room with a lofty ceiling, and here are collected most of her previous relics. The presence of these and other women who might be mentioned, lend an additional interest to the Nation's Capital. They are living representatives of much that is important in the history of this country, and they are not only of attention but of respect and affection from thousands of citizens who admire the lives and revere the memories of their husbands.

It was the purpose of her son and daughter to go with her to the son's home in Lyon county on Thursday, and Mrs. Machen and her mother, Mrs. Minima, arose early to begin preparations for the journey. Mrs. Minima is a very old lady, but was busy about the house and gave but slight heed to her daughter, who at about five o'clock left the house and went to an outbuilding in the rear of the premises. It was there she was discovered by her mother shortly after five, lying prone upon the floor, —in a faint, as the mother supposed, who hurriedly summoned Frank to help his mother into the house. When the poor frail body was lifted from the floor it was discovered that a ball from a 38 caliber pistol had ploughed its cruel way from the temple to the long troubled brain and that death must have supervened almost instantly.

The criticism is sometimes made that while this honor has been paid to men renowned in war, those who have given their time and their services to their country in other capacities have been neglected. There are now regular sizes $6.00 and $1.00.

(From the Cadiz Telephone)
Trigg County's New Court-house.

however, in this city statues of Abraham Lincoln, Chief Justice Marshall, President Garfield, and Prof. Joseph Henry.

When the Leiters came to this city to reside they leased the Blaine house on Dupont circle, which is near the houses they have built and now occupy.

At that time Mr. Blaine was in private life, and when he accepted office again he purchased the residence on Lafayette Square, which he fitted up for his use, and where his last days were spent.

As is well known that house has

been torn down and a theatre building is being erected on the site.

During the past winter Mrs. Blaine

has been living in the big house on

Dupont circle, the only members of

the family with her being her son,

James G. Blain, Jr., and Miss Abigail Dodge (Gail Hamilton).

A daughter, Mrs. Truxton Beal,

however, has her home in this city,

while the other daughter, Mrs. Damrosch, lives in New York.

It is understood that Mrs. Blaine

finds the house too large, and does not

intend to occupy it for another season.

She proposes to lease it furnished,

and it is said that Mr. Westinghouse,

the inventor of the air brake, contem-

pates occupying it next year.

As is well known that house has

been torn down and a theatre build-

ing is being erected on the site.

During the past winter Mrs. Blaine

has been living in the big house on

Dupont circle, the only members of

the family with her being her son,

James G. Blain, Jr., and Miss Abigail Dodge (Gail Hamilton).

A daughter, Mrs. Truxton Beal,

however, has her home in this city,

while the other daughter, Mrs. Damrosch, lives in New York.

It is understood that Mrs. Blaine

finds the house too large, and does not

intend to occupy it for another season.

She proposes to lease it furnished,

and it is said that Mr. Westinghouse,

the inventor of the air brake, contem-

pates occupying it next year.

As is well known that house has

been torn down and a theatre build-

ing is being erected on the site.

During the past winter Mrs. Blaine

has been living in the big house on

Dupont circle, the only members of

the family with her being her son,

James G. Blain, Jr., and Miss Abigail Dodge (Gail Hamilton).

A daughter, Mrs. Truxton Beal,

however, has her home in this city,

while the other daughter, Mrs. Damrosch, lives in New York.

It is understood that Mrs. Blaine

finds the house too large, and does not

intend to occupy it for another season.

She proposes to lease it furnished,

and it is said that Mr. Westinghouse,

the inventor of the air brake, contem-

pates occupying it next year.

As is well known that house has

been torn down and a theatre build-

ing is being erected on the site.

During the past winter Mrs. Blaine

has been living in the big house on

Dupont circle, the only members of

the family with her being her son,

James G. Blain, Jr., and Miss Abigail Dodge (Gail Hamilton).

A daughter, Mrs. Truxton Beal,

however, has her home in this city,

while the other daughter, Mrs. Damrosch, lives in New York.

It is understood that Mrs. Blaine

finds the house too large, and does not

intend to occupy it for another season.

She proposes to lease it furnished,

and it is said that Mr. Westinghouse,

the inventor of the air brake, contem-

pates occupying it next year.

As is well known that house has

been torn down and a theatre build-

ing is being erected on the site.

During the past winter Mrs. Blaine

has been living in the big house on

Dupont circle, the only members of

the family with her being her son,

James G. Blain, Jr., and Miss Abigail Dodge (Gail Hamilton).

A daughter, Mrs. Truxton Beal,

however, has her home in this city,

while the other daughter, Mrs. Damrosch, lives in New York.

It is understood that Mrs. Blaine

finds the house too large, and does not

intend to occupy it for another season.

She proposes to lease it furnished,

and it is said that Mr. Westinghouse,

the inventor of the air brake, contem-

pates occupying it next year.

As is well known that house has

been torn down and a theatre build-

ing is being erected on the site.

During the past winter Mrs. Blaine

has been living in the big house on

Dupont circle, the only members of

the family with her being her son,

James G. Blain, Jr., and Miss Abigail Dodge (Gail Hamilton).

A daughter, Mrs. Truxton Beal,

however, has her home in this city,

while the other daughter, Mrs. Damrosch, lives in New York.

It is understood that Mrs. Blaine

finds the house too large, and does not

intend to occupy it for another season.

She proposes to lease it furnished,

and it is said that Mr. Westinghouse,

the inventor of the air brake, contem-

pates occupying it next year.

The Press.

ISSUED WEEKLY.

R. C. WALKER, Publisher.

ONE YEAR ONE DOLLAR

We are authorized to announce

DAVID ADAMS

a candidate to represent Crittenden and Livingston counties in the next General Assembly of Kentucky, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce

G. N. McGREW

as a candidate to represent Crittenden and Livingston counties in the next General Assembly of Kentucky, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce

T. J. McKELL

as a candidate to represent from the legislative district of Livingston and Crittenden, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

Remember the precinct meetings Saturday, the 15th. The call is published in this paper.

Lyon county adopted prohibition by a vote of 613 to 378. Crittenden votes next. What will she do?

Mr. Carlisle will return to Kentucky to undo some more work that he has been the chief factor in accomplishing for twenty years past.

A majority of the Kentucky Democrats will stand by the "King James' version of Democracy. This new fangled translation will not stand the test.

Lieut. Governor Atwood announces that he is a candidate for Governor. He is a "sound money" man, but does not want anything said about it in the State platform.

More than usual interest was taken in the trustee elections throughout the county Saturday. All of which shows that the people are deeply interested in the schools.

The colored Republicans of Louisville are resolving some more that they want official recognition at the hands of their white brethren. This kind of a eyeball can always be safely predicted, but it was never known to hurt anybody.

Mr. Adams' candidate for the legislature is out in a lead in the Smithland Baffler in which he says, "I am for sound money and then S. B. Buckner for United States Senator. Which we presume means that Mr. Adams is for the gold standard."

The issue of the Todd County Times of May 31 is "a thing of beauty," and should be a joy forever to its publisher and to the town and county he so ably represents. It is an illustrated edition of many pages, and everything in and about it is first class.

The Democrats of Illinois met in Convention yesterday to discuss the currency question. As the delegates from almost every county in the State are instructed to vote for five centage resolutions, the gold bugs can now have a good opportunity to announce some more that the "silver craze" is dying out.

Lyon county, which has been a long time quiet, has joined its neighbors, Livingston and Trigg, and voted for a dry spell. Crittenden is the next county to vote on local option in that bailiwick and it is not unlikely that she will follow suit. The dry crowd seems to be getting about everything it goes after this year.—Induced News,

A mountaineer convict in the Frankfort penitentiary was found gloriously drunk; an investigation showed that with a piece of corn bread, some molasses and a tea kettle he distilled some mountain dew on his own hook. Kentucky gentlemen have always been noted for their skill in mixing drinks, and now as prohibition seems to be on the increase the art is taking a more elaborate turn, and doubtless in a short time an ear of corn and a little branch water will enable the accomplished Kentuckian to evolve a solution to the problem confronting him in prohibition localities.

The Washington correspondent of the Sunday Courier Journal says that it may be possible that Mr. Carlisle will not come back to Kentucky to make another speech on the currency question. He did not carry the State by storm on his first trip, and it is not likely that he would make a complete revolution if he came every week until the crack of doom. A great man like Mr. Carlisle might ultimately convert Kentucky to his way of thinking, but it would take some little time; in fact his former utterances and votes and letters must be forgotten and rubbed out before he can successfully do the job.

OUR COUNTRY CORRESPONDENTS.

TOLI.

D. Tinsley, who was drowned in Barnett's lake several days ago, was taken up last week and an inquiry was held.

Mrs. L. A. Weldon spent several days in Marion last week.

Albert Carnel left his wife last Monday; she has concluded not to live with him any more.

Born to the wife of Leamy Guile, May 27 twin girls; one of the little ones died.

W. P. Crider and family and Miss Minnie McAnis are visiting friends and relatives in Lyon county.

Raymon Baldwin and family are visiting L. A. Weldon's family Saturday and Sunday.

George C. L.'s little girl fell from a porch Saturday and was hurt but not serious.

S. B. Weldon and family are sending a few days in Sheridan.

Harnett school district elected Geo. Croft and Abe Atvis as trustees; Tol elected Dr. Ike Clement as successor of R. A. Moore; Colon elected two, Joseph Taylor and Robt. Threlkeld.

James Sellinger is fisherman of the day and has caught some nice ones.

D. W. Guess and Lewis Terry are hauling coal from Kit and Jacks coal field.

Dick Dorf and Miss Elma Cositt were in town Sunday.

W. P. Crawford and wife spent Sunday in Marion.

Notwithstanding the hot weather, the people will trade our town if so inclined every Saturday that it is almost like election day.

School teachers are as thick as cut worms but we only hope they will do no damage.

James Worley is spending the lovely summer days in Marion.

Letzinger, of Marion, is again in our midst; "he wears his hat now."

Charles McAnis, of Elton, Ills., is visiting relatives of this place.

Prof. Crawford, M. A., of Carrollville is spending a few days with his brother E. S. Wright of this place.

Miss Jessie D. Grafford is on the sick list.

Monday while Sidney Lucas and Joe Lofton was coming from Marion their team ran away, Lucas received a bruise on the knee, and Lofton got his wrist sprained.

Quarterly meeting at Hurricane the second Saturday and Sunday.

Rev. Hodge Murphy filled his regular appointment at Hurricane Sunday.

Rev. George Summers, of Levias, will preach at Forest Hill Sunday and at Tolu Sunday evening of the 2nd.

Hurricane and Tolu Sunday schools will be represented at the convention of the 29 at this place, but will go as separate schools.

Mrs. Ida Moore, of Sheridan, is visiting her brother R. A. Moore.

Newton Horney is on the sick list.

Butler Cain, the patient anger act, of Weston, was in our midst last week.

Mrs. W. C. Hamilton, of Weston, returned home last Wednesday.

Lots can boast of her live stock market, but Tolu can boast of her roller mills, cheap stores, pretty girls and old bachelors.

The wheat in this vicinity will soon do to cut.

FREDONIA.

George Wolf, Ira Bennett, Oscar Gray and George Koon went down near Dyersburg last Monday on a campaigning expedition, returning Friday night with the usual amount of luck—nicht all gone fish too.

The annual trustee and school election was held last Saturday; A. M. Wigginton elected trustee.

The colored gentry of the town have taken to base ball with a vim in all its "uniformity."

Leonard Guess, of Crider, was in town Saturday on his bicycle, and W. H. Porter, R. R. agent, was in town on his bicycle too, but it tickled with him" and he left his likeness in the dust of Main street.

Nelson Dalton, of Crittenden, was in town last Saturday.

Mrs. Ethel Oliver, of Owsipburg, was in Kelsey shopping last week.

Miss Carrie McCull, of Union City Town, attended church here last Sunday.

Miss Ethel Black and brother, Geo. Glenn and wife and Fred Guess, of Crider, attended church here last Sunday and were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Lowery.

Sam Gass and family, of Crittenden, were visiting Charles Parise and his wife, having a monopoly of the business. On course, the government by legislation could not raise the price of the journal, neither did it lower the price, but by taking the largest per cent of the work from the Journal and giving it to the Gleamer, the price of the Journal had fallen. Now let the government remove those restrictions from the Journal, and give it the same powers that have been delegated to the Gleamer, what would the result be? The Journal would go back to its former greatness and while the government did not make the two cent paper worth five cents, it permitted it to do work that was waiting to be done, and that created a demand, and the demand, the economic writer say, has something to do with the price.

Sam Howerton, Furniture, window shades, matting to denote a sickly season.

glassware and queensware at prices never before heard of.

S. C. Bennett

C. H. Boyd and others went on a grand tour of Europe Tuesday return to New York Saturday.

At Mrs. May's in Princeton, with her two sons have been visiting relatives in town for several days.

Several of the citizens went to Princeton Monday and Tuesday.

Wanting—Everybody to call and examine my stock and get my prices.

Goods and prices will both be sure

to suit you, if you are needing anything in my line.

S. C. Bennett

Mrs. Dr. S. Cooper and son Frank attended the commencement exercises at Princeton last week.

Wanted—Everybody to call and

examine my stock and get my prices.

Goods and prices will both be sure

to suit you, if you are needing anything in my line.

S. C. Bennett

Wanted—Everybody to call and

examine my stock and get my prices.

Goods and prices will both be sure

to suit you, if you are needing anything in my line.

S. C. Bennett

Wanted—Everybody to call and

examine my stock and get my prices.

Goods and prices will both be sure

to suit you, if you are needing anything in my line.

S. C. Bennett

Wanted—Everybody to call and

examine my stock and get my prices.

Goods and prices will both be sure

to suit you, if you are needing anything in my line.

S. C. Bennett

Wanted—Everybody to call and

examine my stock and get my prices.

Goods and prices will both be sure

to suit you, if you are needing anything in my line.

S. C. Bennett

Wanted—Everybody to call and

examine my stock and get my prices.

Goods and prices will both be sure

to suit you, if you are needing anything in my line.

S. C. Bennett

Wanted—Everybody to call and

examine my stock and get my prices.

Goods and prices will both be sure

to suit you, if you are needing anything in my line.

S. C. Bennett

Wanted—Everybody to call and

examine my stock and get my prices.

Goods and prices will both be sure

to suit you, if you are needing anything in my line.

S. C. Bennett

Wanted—Everybody to call and

examine my stock and get my prices.

Goods and prices will both be sure

to suit you, if you are needing anything in my line.

S. C. Bennett

Wanted—Everybody to call and

examine my stock and get my prices.

Goods and prices will both be sure

to suit you, if you are needing anything in my line.

S. C. Bennett

Wanted—Everybody to call and

examine my stock and get my prices.

Goods and prices will both be sure

to suit you, if you are needing anything in my line.

S. C. Bennett

Wanted—Everybody to call and

examine my stock and get my prices.

Goods and prices will both be sure

to suit you, if you are needing anything in my line.

S. C. Bennett

Wanted—Everybody to call and

examine my stock and get my prices.

Goods and prices will both be sure

to suit you, if you are needing anything in my line.

S. C. Bennett

Wanted—Everybody to call and

examine my stock and get my prices.

Goods and prices will both be sure

to suit you, if you are needing anything in my line.

S. C. Bennett

Wanted—Everybody to call and

examine my stock and get my prices.

Goods and prices will both be sure

to suit you, if you are needing anything in my line.

S. C. Bennett

Wanted—Everybody to call and</

The Press.

ISSUED WEEKLY,

R. C. WALKER, Publisher

ONE YEAR ONE DOLLAR

We are authorized to announce

DAVID ADAMS

a candidate to represent Crittenden and Livingston counties in the next General Assembly of Kentucky, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce

G. N. McGREW

as a candidate to represent Crittenden and Livingston counties in the next General Assembly of Kentucky, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce

T. J. NICKELL

as a candidate for Representative from the legislative district of Livingston and Crittenden, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

Remember the precinct meetings Saturday, the 16th. The call is published in this paper.

Lyon county adopted prohibition by a vote of 613 to 378. Crittenden votes next. What will she do?

Mr. Carlisle will return to Kentucky to undo some more work that he has been the chief factor in accomplishing for twenty years past.

A majority of the Kentucky Democrats will stand by the "King James" version of Democracy. This new-fangled translation will not stand the test.

Lieut. Governor Alterd announces that he is a candidate for Governor. He is a "sound money" man, but does not want anything said about it in the State platform.

More than usual interest was taken in the Trustee elections throughout the county Saturday. All of which shows that the people are deeply interested in the schools.

The colored Republicans of Louisville are resolving some more that they want official recognition at the hands of their white brethren. This kind of a cyclone can always be safely predicted, but it was never known to hurt anybody.

Mr. Adams, candidate for the legislature is out in a card in the Smithland Banner in which he says: "I am for sound money and Gen. S. B. Buckner for United States Senator. Which we presume means that Mr. Adams is for the gold standard."

The issue of the Todd County Times of May 31 is "a thing of beauty," and should be a joy forever to its publisher and to the town and county he so ably represents. It is an illustrated edition of many pages, and everything in and about it is first class.

The Democrats of Illinois met in Covention yesterday to discuss the currency question. As the delegates from almost every county in the State are instructed to vote for free coinage resolutions, the gold bugs can now have a good opportunity to announce some more that the "silver craze" is dying out.

Lyon county, which has been a long time moist, has joined its neighbors, Livingston and Trigg, and voted for a dry spell. Crittenden is the next county to vote on local option in that bailiwick and it is not unlikely that she will follow suit. The dry crowd seems to be getting about everything it goes after this year.—Paducah News.

A mountaineer convict in the Frankfort penitentiary was found gloriously drunk; an investigation showed that with a piece of corn bread, some molasses and a tea kettle he distilled some mountain dew on his own hook. Kentucky gentlemen have always been noted for their skill in mixing drinks, and now as prohibition is taking a more elaborate turn, and doubtless in a short time an ear of corn and a little branch water will enable the accomplished Kentuckian to evolve a solution to the problem confronting him in prohibition localities.

The Washington correspondent of the Sunday Courier Journal says that it may be possible that Mr. Carlisle will not come back to Kentucky to make another speech on the currency question. He did not entry the State by storm on his first trip, and it is not likely that he would make a complete revolution if he came every week until the crack of doom. A great man like Mr. Carlisle might ultimately convert Kentucky to his way of thinking, but it would take some little time; in fact his former utterances and votes and letters must be forgotten and rubbed out before he can successfully do the job.

To treat silver as we treat gold at the mint is a very, very bad thing, worthy of all condemnation, but the fact remains that it has been the Democratic doctrine for years. In State and National platforms and in Congress, where men's votes go on imperishable record, there has been practically no party dissensions, and now where you see Democrats decrying the old landmarks, and as they talk to their heels cry to their breath raw to remain steadfast, "Poor hosts, Poor guests," it reminds one of the fellow who ran crying, "stop thief, stop thief, when it was his own self that had transgressed the law.

Under the single gold standard, the treasury of the United States with its $100,000,000 of the yellow metal, will have to sustain $316,000,000 of green currency, $600,000,000 in the silver currency and $297,000,000 of national bank notes in existence.

In other words the government must stand good to redeem ten dollars or more with every dollar in gold.

How long do you think it can sustain it? Cannot a rich state at any time draw the gold out of the treasury and force the government to issue more bonds or abandon the single standard? Such an idea can't stand.

No man can continue to do business with his obligations amounting to ten times the amount of his ability to pay them. No government can do it either. Down with the single gold standard—Elizabethtown News.

Circuit Judge Jackson, of Louisville, and Judge Ritchie, county judge of Jefferson county, have decided that the law closing saloons on Sunday is unconstitutional. While the courts in Louisville are going to kowtow to the saloon question, the people in most of the counties away from the metropolis are wiping them out of existence. The cities are also growing less respectful to the Sabbath, so we are to judge from court decisions. While the big cities are the centers of intelligence, comical and all of that, they are also the centers of those forces that are most destructive to Christianity. Sojourner and Gomorrah were cities, and God had to get to the country to save himself from getting unpleasantly warm, during a heated season in the vicinity of these cities.

Some years ago the revenue law known as the Hewitt law, fixed the tax on banks at 75 cents on each one hundred dollars worth of stock, and this tax, payable to the State, was in addition to all other taxes, county, town, school or railroad. In other words, the banks paid the State 75 cents and were liable for no other taxes. Under the new constitution and new legislation, it was held that the banks were taxable just like other property—no more for State purposes than other property, and no less for all local purposes. The banks took the matter into the courts and Saturday the Court of Appeals rendered a decision upholding the position of the banks, and hereafter bank stock will be taxed for State purposes only. The rate of taxation, however, is 75 cents, while tax rate on other property is only 42 cents.

The court holds that the Hewitt law gave the banks certain rights and the legislature has no power to change what was really a contract. This will take about $360,000 back taxes besides $120,000 annually into the State Treasury.

It is by legislation the government can regulate the price of silver, we wish they would also regulate the price of this paper, and make each copy worth one dollar. It certainly is more nearly worth one dollar than fifty cents worth of silver is.—Henderson Journal.

There are two papers published in Henderson; both are good papers, well supported, and their prosperity is evidence that Henderson needs and can sustain two papers on a parity.

Let the government step in, if it were possible, and say, Mr. Journal, you must cease to exist as a newspaper, you can only publish a little eight by ten poster. Now and then you may publish a news item—that item must be very small and purely local. The price of the Journal would certainly fall, and the business of the Gleamer would certainly advance. The Journal and its friends would raise a great hue and cry, but the people would go right on buying the Gleamer, and its friends would swear that it was the only newspaper in town. The Gleamer would sell for a nickel right along and its publishers might even raise the price, buying a monopoly of the business. Of course the government by legislation could not raise the price of the Journal, neither did it lower the price, but by taking the largest percent of the work from the Journal and giving it to the Gleamer, the price of the Journal had fallen. Now let the government remove those restrictions from the Journal, and give it the same powers that have been delegated to the Gleamer, what would the result be? The Journal would go back to its former greatness and while the government did not make the two cent paper worth five cents, it permitted it to do work that was waiting to be done, and that created a demand, and the demand, the economic writers say, has something to do with the price.

Newspaper is a good business, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper, and

the Journal is a good paper, and

the Gleamer is a good paper

The Press.

ISSUED WEEKLY.

R. C. WALKER, Publisher.

ONE YEAR . . . ONE DOLLAR

We are authorized to announce

DAVID ADAMS

a candidate to represent Crittenden and Livingston counties in the next General Assembly of Kentucky, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce

G. N. McGREW

as a candidate to represent Crittenden and Livingston counties in the next General Assembly of Kentucky, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce

T. J. NICKELL

as a candidate to represent Representative from the legislative district of Livingston and Crittenden, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

Remember the precinct meetings Saturday, the 15th. The call is published in this paper.

Lyon county adopted prohibition by a vote of 613 to 378. Crittenden votes next. What will she do?

Mr. Carlisle will return to Kentucky to undo some more work that he has been the chief factor in accomplishing for twenty years past.

A majority of the Kentuckian Democrats will stand by "King James" version of Democracy. This new faultered translation will not stand the test.

Lieut. Governor Alfred announces that he is a candidate for Governor. He is a "sound money" man, but does not want anything said about it in the State platform.

More than usual interest was taken in the Trustee elections throughout the county Saturday. All of which shows that the people are deeply interested in the schools.

The colored Republicans of Louisville are resolving some more that they want official recognition at the hands of their white brethren. This kind of a cyclone can always be safely predicted, but it was never known to hurt anybody.

Mr. Adams, candidate for the legislature is out in a card in the Smithland Banner in which he says: "I am for sound money and Gen. S. B. Buckner for United States Senator. Which we presume means that Mr. Adams is for the gold standard."

The issue of the Todd County Times of May 31 is "a thing of beauty," and should be a joy forever to its publisher and to the town and county he so ably represents. It is an illustrated edition of many pages, and everything in and about it is first class.

Democrats of Illinois met in Covention yesterday to discuss the currency question. As the delegates from almost every county in the State are instructed to vote for free coinage resolutions, the gold bugs can now have a good opportunity to announce some more that the "silver craze" is dying out.

Lyon county, which has been a long time moist, has joined its neighbors, Livingston and Trigg, and voted for a dry spell. Crittenden is the next county to vote on local option in that bailiwick and it is not unlikely that she will follow suit. The dry crowd seems to be getting about everywhere it goes after this year.—Paducah News.

A mountaineer convict in the Frankfort penitentiary was found gloriously drunk; an investigation showed that with a piece of corn bread, some molasses and a tea kettl'e he distilled some mountain dew on his own hook. Kentucky gentlemen have always been noted for their skill in mixing drinks, and now as prohibition seems to be on the increase the art is taking a more elaborate turn, and doubtless in a short time an ear of corn and a little branch water will enable the accomplished Kentuckian to evolve a solution to the problem confronting him in prohibition localities.

The Washington correspondent of the Sunday Courier-Journal says that it may be possible that Mr. Carlisle will not come back to Kentucky to make another speech on the currency question. He did not carry the State by storm on his first trip, and it is not likely that he would make a complete revolution if he came every week until the crack of doom. A great man like Mr. Carlisle might ultimately convert Kentucky to his way of thinking, but it would take some little time; in fact his former utterances and votes and letters must be forgotten and rubbed out before he can successfully do the job.

To treat silver as we treat gold at the mint may be a very, very bad idea, with all due caution, I think it is better that it hangs on the Democratic platform for years to come. In National platforms and in Congress, where men's votes go up and down, there has been previously a party dissension, and now where you see Democrats fleeing from the old landmarks, and then take to their leaders to their party to remain steadfast, it appears that the fellow who runs away, stops thief, stops thief, when it was once own law self that had transgressed the law.

Under the single gold standard the treasury of the United States with its $1,000,000,000 of the yellow metal, will have to sustain $1,400,000,000 of green backs, $400,000,000 in the silver currency and $207,000,000 in national bank notes and relatives.

James McAmis and family are visiting L. A. Weldon & family Saturday and Sunday.

George P. is a little girl left from the school Saturday and was hurt but no serious.

S. B. Weldon and family are spending a few days in Sheridan.

Barnett school district elected George Croft and Alvin Atvis as trustees. Dr. E. A. Moore, Colon, elected to succeed Dr. Ike Clement as successor of Dr. A. Moore. Colon, elected to Joseph Taylor and Bob Threlkeld.

James Sullinger is fisherman of the day and has caught some nice ones.

J. W. Guess and Lewis Terry are hauling coal from Kit and Jacks coal field.

Dick Dorr and Miss Edna Cassidy were in town Sunday.

W. P. Crawford and wife spent Sunday in Marion.

Notwithstanding the hot weather, the people will trade, our town is strengthened every Saturday that it is almost like election day.

School teachers are as thick as horn worms have been but we only hope they will do no damage.

James Worley is spending the lovely summer days in Marion.

Leitzinger, of Marion, is again in our midst; "he wears his hat now."

Clifford McAmis, of E'town, Ills., is visiting relatives of this place.

Prof. Crawford Wright, of Carrollville is spending a few days with his brother E. S. Wright, of this place.

Miss Jessie DeGraffenreid is on the sick list.

Monday while Sidney Lucas and Joe Lofton was coming from Marion their team ran away, Lucas received a bruise on the knee, and Lofton got his wrist sprained.

Quarterly meeting at Hurricane the second Saturday and Sunday.

Rev. Hodge Murphy filled his regular appointment at Hurricane Sunday.

Rev. George Summers, of Lewis, will preach at Forest Hill Sunday and at Tolu Sunday evening of the 2nd.

Hurricane and Tolu Sunday schools will be represented at the convention of the 29th at this place, but will go separate schools.

Lucy while Sidney Lucas and Joe Lofton was coming from Marion their team ran away, Lucas received a bruise on the knee, and Lofton got his wrist sprained.

Quarterly meeting at Hurricane the second Saturday and Sunday.

Rev. Hodge Murphy filled his regular appointment at Hurricane Sunday.

Many arrangements to attend Hampden Academy entertainment June 5.

Moss Mamie Yates has gone to the country for a short stay.

Mr. W. C. Hamilton, of Weston, returned home last Wednesday.

Lots can boast of her live stock market, but Tolu can boast of her roller mills, cheap stores, pretty girls and old bachelors.

The wheat in this vicinity will soon do to cut.

OUR COUNTRY CORRESPONDENTS.

TDLI

Passages and packages at prices are to be had at

NEW SALEM

S. C. Bennett.

B. Tinsley, who was drowned in Barnett's lake seven days ago, was taken to last week and an inquest was held.

Mrs. L. A. Weldon spent several days in Marion last week.

Albert Curnel left his wife last Monday, she has concluded not to live with him any more.

Born to the wife of Lemay Guile, May 27 twin girls, one of the little ones died.

W. P. Crider and family and Mrs. McAmis are visiting friends and relatives in Live county.

Bynum Baber & family are visiting L. A. Weldon & family Saturday and Sunday.

George P. is a little girl left from the school Saturday and was hurt but no serious.

S. B. Weldon and family are spending a few days in Sheridan.

Barnett school district elected George Croft and Alvin Atvis as trustees. Dr. E. A. Moore, Colon, elected to succeed Dr. A. Moore. Colon, elected to Joseph Taylor and Bob Threlkeld.

James Sullinger is fisherman of the day and has caught some nice ones.

J. W. Guess and Lewis Terry are hauling coal from Kit and Jacks coal field.

Dick Dorr and Miss Edna Cassidy were in town Sunday.

W. P. Crawford and wife spent Sunday in Marion.

Notwithstanding the hot weather, the people will trade, our town is strengthened every Saturday that it is almost like election day.

School teachers are as thick as horn worms have been but we only hope they will do no damage.

James Worley is spending the lovely summer days in Marion.

Leitzinger, of Marion, is again in our midst; "he wears his hat now."

Clifford McAmis, of E'town, Ills., is visiting relatives of this place.

Prof. Crawford Wright, of Carrollville is spending a few days with his brother E. S. Wright, of this place.

Miss Jessie DeGraffenreid is on the sick list.

Monday while Sidney Lucas and Joe Lofton was coming from Marion their team ran away, Lucas received a bruise on the knee, and Lofton got his wrist sprained.

Quarterly meeting at Hurricane the second Saturday and Sunday.

Rev. Hodge Murphy filled his regular appointment at Hurricane Sunday.

Many arrangements to attend Hampden Academy entertainment June 5.

Moss Mamie Yates has gone to the country for a short stay.

Mr. W. C. Hamilton, of Weston, returned home last Wednesday.

Hurricane and Tolu Sunday schools will be represented at the convention of the 29th at this place, but will go separate schools.

Lucy while Sidney Lucas and Joe Lofton was coming from Marion their team ran away, Lucas received a bruise on the knee, and Lofton got his wrist sprained.

Quarterly meeting at Hurricane the second Saturday and Sunday.

Rev. Hodge Murphy filled his regular appointment at Hurricane Sunday.

Many arrangements to attend Hampden Academy entertainment June 5.

Moss Mamie Yates has gone to the country for a short stay.

Mr. W. C. Hamilton, of Weston, returned home last Wednesday.

Lots can boast of her live stock market, but Tolu can boast of her roller mills, cheap stores, pretty girls and old bachelors.

The wheat in this vicinity will soon do to cut.

FREDONIA

Wanted a nice little shaver. Who ever was shot at Mrs. Carter had better look out.

This was a part of Mr. McEwens last week.

For the last week or two a trip around the country has been made to furnish the Fresh news in this style.

Miss G. M. Smith is on the sick list.

What is the matter with Gipsy Holland?

There was a prayer meeting at Freedman Wednesday night.

Bro. Ramsey gave the people quite a talk Sunday. His subject was "Tempest and Sunshine."

Subscribe for the Press, the best country newspaper published.

Pretty hot and no clouds.

BUCHANAN. Meats served at all hours. — R. C. Fritts, Freedom.

John Fritts saw Sunshine's partner not long since.

Wheat is needing rain in this section.

This is Papago's first effort, so over look mistakes.

Messrs. W. E. Fritts and R. O. Nesbitt have got their corn plowed over twice and are going over it the third time.

OAK HALL.

S. W. King was elected school trustee for Oak Hall district.

Miss Mary Moore has made application for our school, she taught us a first class school last year and we think she is likely to get the school again.

Some of our neighbors were somewhat surprised last Sunday morning to meet W. G. Condit in such an unusual appearance. He was riding face backward, standing up in his stirrups which were taken up to the last hole, his hands thrown up, and exclaiming, "It's a girl! It's a girl!" and when called on to explain this self he said, "I have a new girl at my house which makes love among the boys."

Have you noticed the absence of flies this year? Such absence is said to denote a sickly season.

ELECTRICIAN NIKOLA TESLA.

Nikola Tesla, a scientific electrical engineer, was recently discovered to be from New York, working in Edison's laboratory. He sends messages without any physical electric light by induction, allows 20,000 volts to pass through his body when 1,000 will kill, and performs other marvelous feats. He is 37 years old.

Daniel Jones was living on a farm at Eliz. H. Taylor, a valuable young boy. On Friday last, he was shot in the leg became entangled in a barbed wire fence, and cut his foot, and when found was dead, having bled to death. This is the second horse that Daniel has lost in the first year, and being a poor man, it goes quite hard with him, especially these hard times.

Our school election at New Salem passed off quietly. Wm. Taylor and J. D. Davis were elected, we hope they may qualify, as they are both good men, and will make number one trustees. We will say to teachers applying for a school, give us a rest, for there are about twenty applications already in.

This dry weather is becoming quite a serious matter to our bluff neighbors; some of them inform us that one more week's play on the water supply, and then from two to three miles with their stock for water, and some will have to haul water for temporary use, with less than half crop prospects and out of water, makes quite a bad state of affairs.

New Salem church has been tried to put in a dressing of new shingles to the windows and some handsome improvements on the interior of the church makes it one of the handsomest country churches anywhere in the state.

Our school has been tried to put in a dressing of new shingles to the windows and some handsome improvements on the interior of the church makes it one of the handsomest country churches anywhere in the state.

Our school has been tried to put in a dressing of new shingles to the windows and some handsome improvements on the interior of the church makes it one of the handsomest country churches anywhere in the state.

Our school has been tried to put in a dressing of new shingles to the windows and some handsome improvements on the interior of the church makes it one of the handsomest country churches anywhere in the state.

Our school has been tried to put in a dressing of new shingles to the windows and some handsome improvements on the interior of the church makes it one of the handsomest country churches anywhere in the state.

Our school has been tried to put in a dressing of new shingles to the windows and some handsome improvements on the interior of the church makes it one of the handsomest country churches anywhere in the state.

Our school has been tried to put in a dressing of new shingles to the windows and some handsome improvements on the interior of the church makes it one of the handsomest country churches anywhere in the state.

Our school has been tried to put in a dressing of new shingles to the windows and some handsome improvements on the interior of the church makes it one of the handsomest country churches anywhere in the state.

Our school has been tried to put in a dressing of new shingles to the windows and some

The Press.

ISSUED WEEKLY.

R. C. WALKER, Publisher.

ONE YEAR ONE DOLLAR

We are authorized to announce

DAVID ADAMS

a candidate to represent Crittenden and Livingston counties in the next General Assembly of Kentucky, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce G. N. McGREW

as a candidate to represent Crittenden and Livingston counties in the next General Assembly of Kentucky, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce T. J. NICKELL

as a candidate to represent Livingston and Crittenden, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

Remember the precinct meetings Saturday, the 15th. The call is published in this paper.

Lyon county adopted prohibition by a vote of 613 to 378. Crittenden votes next. What will she do?

Mr. Carlisle will return to Kentucky to undo some more work that he has been the chief factor in accomplishing for twenty years past.

A majority of the Kentucky Democrats will stand by the "King James" version of Democracy. This new fangled translation will not stand the test.

Lient. Governor Alfred announces that he is a candidate for Governor. He is a "sound money" man, but does not want anything said about it in the State platform.

More than usual interest was taken in the Trustee elections throughout the county Saturday. All of which shows that the people are deeply interested in the schools.

The elected Republicans of Louisville are resolving sous more that they want official recognition at the hands of their white brethren. This kind of a cyclone can always be safely predicted, but it was never known to hurt anybody.

Mr. Adams, candidate for the legislature is out in a card in the Smithland Banner in which he says, "I am for sound money and Gen. S. B. Buckner for United States Senator." Which we presume means that Mr. Adams is for the gold standard.

The issue of the Todd County Times of May 31 is "eating of beauty," and should be a joy forever to its publisher and to the town and county he so ably represents. It is an illustrated edition of many pages, and everything in and about it is first class.

The Democrats of Illinois met in Convention yesterday to discuss the currency question. As the delegates from almost every county in the State are instructed to vote for free coinage resolutions, the gold bugs can now have a good opportunity to announce some more that the "silver craze" is dying out.

Lyon county, which has been a long time moist, has joined its neighbor, Livingston and Trigg, and voted for a dry spell. Crittenden is the next county to vote on local option in that bailiwick and it is not unlikely that she will follow suit. The dry crowd seems to be getting about everywhere it goes after this year.—Paducah News.

A mountaineer convict in the Frankfort penitentiary was found gloriously drunk; an investigation showed that with a piece of corn bread, some molasses and a tea kett'e he distilled some mountain dew on his own hook. Kentucky gentlemen have always been noted for their skill in mixing drunks, and now as prohibition seems to be on the increase the art is taking a more elaborate turn, and doubtless in a short time an ear of corn and a little branch water will enable the accomplished Kentuckian to evolve a solution to the problem confronting him in prohibition localities.

The Washington correspondent of the Sunday Courier Journal says that it may be possible that Mr. Carlisle will not come back to Kentucky to make another speech on the currency question. He did not carry the State by storm on his last trip, and it is not likely that he would make a complete revolution if he came every week until the crack of doom. A great man like Mr. Carlisle might ultimately convert Kentucky to his way of thinking, but it would take some little time; in fact his former utterances and votes and letters must be forgotten and rubbed out of existence before he can successfully do the job.

OUR COUNTRY CORRESPONDENTS.

TOLU.

glassware and queensware at prices never before heard of.

S. C. Bennett.

D. Tinsley, who was drowned in Burnett's lake several days ago, was taken up last week and an inquest was held.

Mrs. L. A. Weldon spent several days in Marion last week.

Albert Carnel left his wife last Saturday; she has concluded not to live with him any more.

Born to the wife of Lenny Guile, May 27 twin girls; one of the little ones died.

W. P. Crider and family and Miss Minnie McAmis are visiting friends and relatives in Lyon county.

Raymon Babb and family are visiting L. A. Weldon's family Saturday and Sunday.

George Cr. C's little girl fell from a porch Saturday and was hurt but not serious.

S. B. Weldon and family are sending a few days in Sheridan.

Barnett school district elected Geo. Cr. C and Abe Alvis as trustees; Tolu elected Dr. Ike Clement as successor of R. A. Moore; Colon elected two, Joseph Taylor and Robt Threlkeld.

James Sullinger fisherman of the day and has caught some nice ones.

J. W. Guess and Lewis Terry are handling coal from Kit and Jacks coal field.

Dick Darr and Miss Edna Cossitt were in town Sunday.

W. P. Crawford and wife spent Sunday in Marion.

Notwithstanding the hot weather, the people will trade, our town is so thronged every Saturday that it is almost like election day.

School teachers are as thick as ent worms have been but we only hope they will do no damage.

James Worley is spending the lovely summer days in Marion.

Letzinger, of Marion, is again in our midst; he wears his hat now.

Clinton McAmis, of Eliz., Ia., is visiting relatives of this place.

Prof. Crawford Wright, of Carrollton, is spending a few days with his brother E. S. Wright, of this place.

Miss Jessie DeGraffenreid is on the sick list.

Monday while Sidney Lucas and their team ran away, Lucas received a bruise on the knee, and Lofton got his wrist sprained.

Quarterly meeting at Hurricane the second Saturday and Sunday.

Rev. Hodge Murphy filled his regular appointment at Hurricane Sunday.

Rev. George Summers, of Lewis, will preach at Forest Hill Sunday and at Tolu Sunday evening of the 2nd.

Hurricane and Tolu Sunday schools will be represented at the convention of the 20th at this place, but will go as separate schools.

Mrs. Ida Moore, of Sheridan, is visiting her brother R. A. Moore.

Newton Horney is on the sick list.

Butler Cain, the patient anger act, of Weston, was in our midst last week.

Mrs. W. C. Hamilton, of Weston, returned home last Wednesday.

Lola can boast of her live stock market, but Tolu can boast of her roller mills, cheap stores, pretty girls and old bachelors.

The wheat in this vicinity will soon do to eat.

FREDONIA.

WASN'T THAT A NICE LITTLE SHOWER.

WHOEVER THAT WAS SHOT AT MRS. CARICK HAD BETTER LOOK OUT.

THESE WAS A PARTY AT MR. MC EWENS LAST WEEK.

THE FORMER CORRESPONDENT FROM THIS PLACE HAS BEEN ON A TRIP AROUND THE WORLD, AND "PAPAGO" WILL FURNISH THE FREEDOM NEWS IN FIRST CLASS STYLE.

MRS. G. M. RUSSELL IS ON THE SICK LIST.

WHAT IS THE MATTER WITH GIPSY HOLLOWAN?

THERE WAS PRAYER MEETING AT FREEDOM WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

BRO. RAMSEY GAVE THE PEOPLE QUITE A TALK SUNDAY. HIS SUBJECT WAS, "TEMPEST AND SUNSHINE."

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE PRESS, THE BEST LOCAL NEWSPAPER PUBLISHED.

Pretty hot and no cutworms.

RESTAURANT—MEALS SERVED AT ALL HOURS.

R. C. FRITTS, FREEDOM.

JOHN FRITTS SAW SWASHING'S PANTHER NOT LONG SINCE.

WEAT IS NEEDING RAIN IN THIS SECTION.

THIS IS PAPAGO'S FIRST EFFORT, SO OVERLOOK MISTAKES.

MESSES W. E. FRITTS AND R. O. NEBBITT HAVE GOT THEIR CORN PLowed OVER TWICE AND ARE GOING OVER IT THE THIRD TIME.

PAPAGO.

OAK HALL.

S. W. KING WAS ELECTED SCHOOL TRUSTEE FOR OAK HALL DISTRICT.

MRS. MARY MOORE HAS MADE APPLICATION FOR OUR SCHOOL, SHE TAUGHT US A FIRST CLASS SCHOOL LAST YEAR AND WE THINK SHE IS LIKELY TO GET THE SCHOOL AGAIN.

SOME OF OUR NEIGHBORS WERE SOMEWHAT SURPRISED LAST SUNDAY MORNING TO MEET W. G. CONDITT IN SUCH AN UNUSUAL APPEARANCE.

HE WAS RIDING BACKWARD, STANDING UP IN HIS STRAPS WHICH WERE TAKEN UP TO THE LAST HOLE, HIS HANDS THROWN UP, AND EXCLAIMING, "IT'S A GIRL! IT'S A GIRL!"

AND WHEN CALLED ON TO EXPLAIN HIMSELF HE SAID, "I HAVE A NEW GIRL AT MY HOUSE WHICH MAKES FIVE COUNTING THE BOYS."

NEW WOOD IS BLACK GOOD AND BLACK GROUND GOODS. SAM HOWERTON.

SEE OUR DUCK PANTS.

SAM HOWERTON.

FURNITURE, WINDOW SHADES, MATTING TO DECORATE A SICKLY SEASON.

NEW SALE

WEATHER HOT AND DRY, WHAT LITTLE TOBACCO WAS SET IS ALMOST ALL DEAD; PESTLES DRIED UP, CAT CROP ABOUT PLAYED OUT, CORN PLANTING ABOUT COMPLETED THE 23rd AND 34th.

LITTLE EVERETT GRILLIS, WHO LIVES AT UNCLE JEFF LAURE'S, MET WITH A SERIOUS MISCHIEF LAST FRIDAY, IN DOING SOME WORK WITH SAW AND AX. HE GLANCED AND NEARLY CUT HIS FOOT OFF. HE WAS CARRIED HOME AND A DOCTOR SUMMONED, AND ALL THAT MEDICAL SKILL COULD DO WAS DONE FOR HIM; HE IS GETTING ALONG AS WELL AS CAN BE EXPECTED, UNDER THE CIRCUMSTANCES.

DANIEL JONES, WHO LIVES ON THE FARM OF E. H. TAYLOR, LOST A YOUNG HORSE ON FRIDAY LAST.

BY SOME MEANS THE HORSE BECAME ENTANGLED IN A BARBED WIRE FENCE, AND CUT ITS TAIL, AND WHEN FOUND WAS DEAD, HAVING LIVED TO DEATH. THIS IS THE SECOND HORSE THAT DANIEL HAS LOST IN THE FIRST YEAR, AND BEING A POOR MAN, IT GOES QUITE HARD WITH HIM, ESPECIALLY THESE HARD TIMES.

OUR SCHOOL ELECTED AT NEW SALEM PASSED OFF QUIETLY. WM. TAYLOR AND JOE PAGE WERE ELECTED; WE HOPE THEY MAY QUALIFY, AS THEY ARE BOTH GOOD MEN, AND WILL MAKE NUMBER ONE TRUSTEES; WHO WILL SAY TO TEACHERS APPLYING FOR A SCHOOL TO GIVE US A REST, FOR THERE ARE ABOUT TWENTY APPLICATIONS ALREADY IN.

THIS DRY WEATHER IS BECOMING QUITE A SERIOUS MATTER TO OUR BLUFF NEIGHBORS; SOME OF THEM INFORM US THAT ONE MORE WEEK PLAYS OUT THE WATER SUPPLY, AND THEN FROM TWO TO THREE MILES WITH THEIR STOCK FOR WATER, AND SOME WILL HAVE TO HAUL WATER FOR FAMILY USE; WITH BUT LITTLE CROP PROSPECTS AND OUT OF WATER, MAKES QUITE A BAD STATE OF AFFAIRS.

NEW SALEM CHURCH HAS BEEN TREASURED TO QUITE A DREAMING OF NEW SHUTTERS TO THE WINDOWS AND SOME HANDSONE IMPROVEMENTS ON THE INTERIOR OF THE CHURCH MAKING IT ONE OF THE HANDSOMEST COUNTRY CHURCHES ANYWHERE IN THIS STATE. NOW LET OUR OLD SCHOOL DO SOME HAIR CUTTING UP.

REV. E. M. TAYLOR PREACHED AT CHILDREN'S SCHOOL ON THE FIRST SABBATH.

MRS. LEE WHITE, OF SISCO'S CHAPEL, IS THE GUEST OF HER SISTER, MRS. CROSBY.

POLITICALLY, THINGS ARE QUITER THAN FOR MANY YEARS.

CARMER M. J. PERIGAN, OF SHERIDAN, WAS IN THIS SECTION LAST WEEK ON OFFICIAL BUSINESS. NEWT IS LITTLE, BUT HE GETS THERE ALL THE SAME.

ONE OF OUR NEIGHBORS UNDERTOOK TO HIVE A NEST OF REGULAR OLD BALD HEADED KENTUCKY BUMBLE BEES THE OTHER DAY, IT TOOK THE ENTIRE SERVICES OF OUR BEST DOCTORS TO SAVE THE OLD CURE. THEY SAY HE MAKES 2-10 TIME NOW IF HE SEES ONE COMING TOWARD HIM.

BLOOMING ROSE.

MASON FRUIT JARS, 80 CENTS PER DOZEN.

SEALING WAX FRUIT JARS, 65 CENTS PER DOZEN.

GRAINATED SUGAR 19 POUNDS FOR $1.00.

LIGHT C SUGAR 20 POUNDS FOR $1.00.

CUPS AND SAUCERS 15 CENTS PER SET.

Glasses 15 CENTS EACH.

WATER BUCKETS, 10 CENTS EACH.

Nikola Tesla, the young Serbian inventor whose workshop was recently destroyed by fire in New York, is trying Edison as an electrician. He has messages without wires, can move objects by thought, can pass through his body with 10,000 volt kill, and perform other marvelous feats. He is 37 years old.

PECULIAR In contraption and preparation, Hood's surpasses all creative ability. You should TRY IT.

A. J. COLE

Times are hard, I must and will have money, will positively sell anything and everything in the Grocery and Hardware line at COST for the next 30 days.

Disc Cultivators, The Best Made, Handled By Us Only.

Buggy Harness, from $5.00 up. Nails, wire and in fact everything else in the Hardware line positively at first cost for the next 30 days. We want your Wool, Ginseng and Feathers, will pay you spot cash for them.

M. SCHWAB.

Notice

Big Cut in Prices.

Having bought out the Geo. L. Rankin stock of goods at Weston, I am selling the old stock out regardless of cost.

I have put in a new stock of goods and am selling them at rock bottom prices and ask all to come and see me. I have everything kept in a country store—dry goods, groceries, laundry implements of every kind.

You will find Mr. G. L. Rankin willing to wait on you and sell you goods and services at lowest prices, and I make a specialty of Ohio river salt, which I am selling at $1 per bushel. Call and see me before buying elsewhere.

Respy, E. H. PORTER, Weston, Ky.

A Word to Farmers.

We Want to Supply Your Wants in Our Line.

We announce to the Farmers of Crittenden and adjoining counties that we are handling Farming Machinery this season, and will supply you with as good as the market affords.

AT THE LOWEST PRICES.

We handle the Mogul Wagon, one of best made.

WE HAVE THE CELEBRATED

Champion Harvesting Machines,

So long known, so well tried and greatly prized by farmers of the South and West.

Press.

Publisher.

L. NEWS.

and supplies for all machines at Pierce &

Pierce & Son's,

Walker & Olive's,

next Monday.

Cositt, Dentist, Marion,
the dentist, of Marion,
and at Walker & Olive's of Union's Financial

A. Dewey & Co.,
ants, the latest, at Mrs.

as Bros., for fine ice drinks.

meeting at Hurricane Sunday.

three teachers will be day and Saturday.

at the Baptist church
has been completed.

and see those lovely baby Loving s.

ing has lovely new white tived.

J. James will speak at New day night, June 8.

prices on screen doors be-elsewhere.

A. Dewey & Co., evil is quelled and ad-J. H. Antone decreased

money and buy your screen

A. Dewey & Co.

Hard has his one boarder—
erson—engaged in white-

mission papers were issued
and he has been released
Mexico prison.

our building lumber from & Olive

load of fine white lumber
for sale, price 50 cents
each.

A. Dewey & Co.

for sale a piano as gentle-
and will work anywhere,
lately.

Thomas Bros.

Jonathan Jacobs was in town
y, living his pension papers
about $100 the first draw.

ay morning Messrs. Barkalow
from Hazelton came to town
in warrant issued charging
color with a breach of the
They report that he beat and
couple of boys Sunday.

J. Nekell spent two days in city last week, mixing with
ers. He has been kept at home
in his family for several
but now hopes to see some of
ors of the district.

Hazel, a negro who resided in
up to a year ago, was lynched
Blackburn and Shawneetown
day evening. He had stolen house, which cost him his life—Ledger.

best gardener in the county is
ard. He has transformed the appearance of the jail lots
of red beauty, and it
it produce that which is used very valuable about mead

A. Dewey is perfecting arrange-
or putting up a big flouring
Henderson. Mr. Dewey
by mill men to be one of the
ers in Southern Kentucky,
be regretted that he is going Marion.

nights ago a burglar visited
r of private residences in
and helped himself to the
of the pockets of the trouals victims. Among the tes was Mr. S. Hodge, from this place.

al persons left Tuesday to
the Republican State Conven-
Louisville. Among them
W. J. Deboe, W. B. Van-
A. Haynes, Jno. T. Franko,
Haynes, D. S. Young, A. M.
Milt Rabb.

arr and Bob Brown are test-
or the story that a Caldwell
ner has been setting his fortifying against the eat
wrapping a piece of paper
round the root of each plant
was put in the ground.

Thomas' music class, under
agement, will give an enter-
at the School House Hall
ight, June 7. A splendid
he has been prepared for the
and the public may con-spect something good. Eve-
nvited.

Princeton Choral Union

The Princeton Choral Union will give a concert at the opera house at Marion Monday evening, June 10.
The music will be of the very highest class, and all lovers of good music can not afford to miss it.

Mr. Nekell Will Speak.

Mr. T. J. Nekell requests us to announce that he will address the people at Marion Monday, June 10, in regard to the legislative race. The other candidates are invited, and a fair division of time will be accorded them.

Short Lived Felicity.

On May 16, Mr. Jesse Denning and Miss Eva Dobbins, of near Clayeville, were united in marriage. On the fifth day thereafter they disagreed and he departed, on the third day he was recalled, and everything promised peace and happiness, but in a day or two there was another separation. It was the bride who was fickle.

A week ago Sunday a Mr. Kline, who has been representing a "Memorial Company" in that section, and Miss Edie Butler, a young lady of the Salem neighborhood, without consulting their friends, left for Tennessee.
At Dover they were married and Friday they returned to Salem.

Sunday was observed as children's day at the Methodist church, the Sunday School and preaching hours were consumed by the children's programme. Declamations and essays concerning the various branches of church work, songs and prayer service filled the time. The church was decorated with flowers, and the little lads were happy.

The trial of Gregory, Fouts and Norris, charged with conspiring and plotting to get out of Indiana, was held Friday, action account of the absence of a Commonwealth witness.

was postponed until next Friday.

Attorney A. C. Moore has been employed to assist in the prosecution and

James will conduct the defense.

Mr. Nekell and as ad-
J. H. Antone decreased

money and buy your screen

A. Dewey & Co.

Hard has his one boarder—
erson—engaged in white-

mission papers were issued
and he has been released
Mexico prison.

our building lumber from & Olive

load of fine white lumber
for sale, price 50 cents
each.

A. Dewey & Co.

for sale a piano as gentle-
and will work anywhere,
lately.

Thomas Bros.

Jonathan Jacobs was in town
y, living his pension papers
about $100 the first draw.

ay morning Messrs. Barkalow
from Hazelton came to town
in warrant issued charging
color with a breach of the
They report that he beat and
couple of boys Sunday.

J. Nekell spent two days in
city last week, mixing with
ers. He has been kept at home
in his family for several
but now hopes to see some of
ors of the district.

Hazel, a negro who resided in
up to a year ago, was lynched
Blackburn and Shawneetown
day evening. He had stolen
house, which cost him his life—
Ledger.

best gardener in the county is
ard. He has transformed the appearance of the jail lots
of red beauty, and it
it produce that which is use-
d very valuable about mead

A. Dewey is perfecting arrange-
or putting up a big flouring
Henderson. Mr. Dewey
by mill men to be one of the
ers in Southern Kentucky,
be regretted that he is going Marion.

nights ago a burglar visited
r of private residences in
and helped himself to the
of the pockets of the trou-
als victims. Among the tes was Mr. S. Hodge, from this place.

al persons left Tuesday to
the Republican State Conven-
Louisville. Among them
W. J. Deboe, W. B. Van-
A. Haynes, Jno. T. Franko,
Haynes, D. S. Young, A. M.
Milt Rabb.

arr and Bob Brown are test-
or the story that a Caldwell
ner has been setting his
fortifying against the eat
wrapping a piece of paper
round the root of each plant
was put in the ground.

Thomas' music class, under
agement, will give an enter-
at the School House Hall
ight, June 7. A splendid
he has been prepared for the
and the public may con-
spect something good. Eve-
nvited.

HEIRS TO A MILLION.

Some Crittenden County People Who May Be Millionaires

Vol.

From the Stephensville, Texas, Inquirer we clip the following. The John Zimmerman referred to moved from this county to Texas several years ago, and the Davall spoken of is the wife of Mr. Alanzo Davall of Marion, and Burde Worley is the lamented wife of John Worley of this county.

"The many friends of John Zimmerman
in this county will be glad to know that he, together with other relatives, will soon come into possession of an immense fortune, through the death of a relative. The fortune is in land, situated in Germany, England and Austria, and amounts to $25,000,000. This right snug little sum for any man, and to one situated like Mr. Zimmerman, it no doubt looks like too much for the finite mind to grasp. John is a steady, hard working farmer, near town,
who by honest and economy has made a living for his family and neglected some property besides. These are the kind of men who deserve the name of fortune, and we are glad to extend the same hand in congratula-tion. The other heirs in Crittenden County are Alan W. Zimmerman, Elizabeth Zimmerman, (now Harris), Andrew Davall and Burde Worley. Messrs.
Davall & Vaneart of this place have been retained as counsel for the heirs.
The following from the weekly Gid-den's of July 17, 1841, fully explains the situation:

New York Daily Times. Several gentlemen of this state who have located on Madison street, Washington, Brooklyn, is said to be perfectly furnished with the business world and if she goes on at the rate she is going now, it will be but a few days until she will own the town. It is now a boom to our quiet little town and our people are much excited over the flattering prospects of it soon rowing into a city, and of Webster county becoming the Eldorado of the Mississippi valley. May the good begin work continue."

Longfellow.

Minutes.

District S. S. Convention of First

Sunday met in Wilson's Chapel on Saturday, June 1, 1895.

The devotional service was conducted by W. J. Hill, with several earnest prayers for an outpouring of the Holy Ghost upon this occasion.

The first topic on the programme was how can we improve our Sunday school. The subject was ably and earnestly discussed by J. P. Hogard and others.

During these sixty years the property has increased greatly in value, almost of it was in real estate situated about Germany, England, Austria, Italy, that were worth little or nothing at the time the original will was drawn up, it is now said to be of great value. Lawyer Hubbell, of this city, laid the matter up and has located twenty-two heirs. One of them is Zimmerman.

Mrs. Mount untied her sister by many years, and died in Jersey City a few days shortly after she had celebrated her 90th birthday. She had never bothered about the property in her lifetime, believing it was of small value, and gave notice to the executors that they shall let it stand for her heirs.

There being no singing classes present except the Wilson Chapel class, it made the music for the occasion.

The district president H. S. Wheeler then made his report, which showed well for this district.

Reports of individual schools were
not so good as they might have been
but until recently had not met or known the whereabouts of each other
for fifty years.

The two reports made by their Superintendents were Sue Phillips of
Wilson Chapel, and New Lamb of Sugar Creek school, which reports
were encouraging for their schools.

The choir sang Resurrection

Messrs. John Franks, Wm. Baird,
and Mrs. Lizzie Williams and Miss Eva Williams, went to Providence
Sunday.

Mr. W. L. Crane returned from Ardmore, I. T., last week. He is well pleased with the country and the situation of affairs out there, and may
make it his permanent home.

Mrs. Wright of Litchfield, is the guest of Mrs. Margaret Rochester, of this place. They are old friends
but until recently had not met or
known the whereabouts of each other
for fifty years.

The two reports made by their Superintendents were Sue Phillips of
Wilson Chapel, and New Lamb of Sugar Creek school, which reports
were encouraging for their schools.

The choir sang Resurrection

Messrs. John Franks, Wm. Baird,
and Mrs. Lizzie Williams and Miss Eva Williams, went to Providence
Sunday.

Mr. W. L. Crane returned from Ardmore, I. T., last week. He is
well pleased with the country and the situation of affairs out there, and may
make it his permanent home.

An iron fence will be put around the school house?

The weather never gets too hot for postmaster Hearn to talk?

No one will be surprised if Crittenden does the same thing?

J. P. Pierce does more business than any other man in the county?

Squire Postlethwait has purchased a lot and will build a house in Marion?

Livingston, Lyon and Trigg counties have voted for prohibition this year?

Three men have been hung by mob and one by law in Crittenden
county?

Frank Loyd is never happier than when in the discharge of official duties?

When deputy sheriff Pickens goes out after the boys he rarely returns empty handed?

Cad Bennett is knocking down to business in Ardmore, I. T., and may yet go to Congress?

Dr. Slope will leave behind him
lots of friends and a splendid practice
when he goes to New Mexico?

The Sunday School Convention at Wilson's Chapel Saturday was largely attended, and the programme was interesting. Addressees were made by Messrs. Miley, Hogard, Hill and others.

The singing by the Wilson Chapel class was splendid, and a most excellent dinner was served.

Car load of shingles just received,
every bundle warranted; get our prices.

A. Dewey & Co.

Chancellor Commander.—H. F.
Ray,

Vice Chancellor.—J. F. Dodge.

Predate.—Eld. J. S. Henry.

Master of Work.—G. M. Crider.

Master of Arms.—S. R. Adams.

District Deputy.—H. A. Haynes.

Delegate to Grand Lodge.—John T. Franks.

Deeds Recorded.

J. M. Travis to T. A. Travis, 55 acres for $550.

James King's heirs to R. W.
Moore, 20 acres for $50.

F. A. Jacobs to Trustee School
District No. 44, lot for $16.50.

The Press.

R. C. WALKER, Publisher.

LOCAL NEWS.

Needles, oils and supplies for all kinds of sewing machines at Pierce & Son's.

Linen at Pierce & Son's.

Shingles at Walker & Olive's.

County court next Monday.

Dr. T. H. Cositt, Dentist, Marion.

Dr. Jordan, the dentist, of Marion.

Doors and sash at Walker & Olive's.

Get a copy of Coin's Financial School at Henrich's.

Fly bumpers.

A. Dewey & Co.

Hair ornaments, the latest, at Mrs. Loving's.

Go to Thomas Bros. for fine ice cream and cold drinks.

Quarterly meeting at Hurricane Saturday and Sunday.

More than thirty teachers will be examined Friday and Saturday.

The baptistery at the Baptist church of this place has been completed.

You should see those lovely baby caps at Mrs. Loving's.

Mrs. Loving has lovely new white hats just received.

Mr. O. M. James will speak at New Salem Saturday night, June 8.

Get out prints on screen doors before buying elsewhere.

A. Dewey & Co.

B. Kevil has qualified as administrator of J. H. Aarons, deceased.

Save money and buy your screen doors from A. Dewey & Co.

Jailer Hard has his one boarder—Sam Patterson—engaged in whitewashing.

No requisition papers were issued for Goode, and he has been released from the Missouri prison.

Get your building lumber from Walker & Olive.

A car load of fine white Union county corn for sale, price 50 cents per bushel.

A. Dewey & Co.

We offer for sale a pony as gentle as can be and will work anywhere, single or double.

Thomas Bros.

Mr. Jonathan Jacobs was in town Saturday, fixing his pension papers. He gets about $400 the first draw.

Monday morning Morris, Hulow and Teer, from Harold came to town and had a warrant issued charging Wm. Tabor with a breach of the peace. They report that he beat and abused a couple of boys Sunday.

Mr. T. J. Nickell spent two days in this county last week, mixing with the voters. He has been kept at home by illness in his family for several weeks, but now hopes to see some of the voters of the district.

Sam Hazel, a negro who resided in Sturgis up to a year ago, was lynched between Blackburn and Shawneetown last Friday evening. He had stolen a fine horse, which cost him his life—Sturgis Ledger.

The best gardener in the county is Lark Hard. He has transformed the deserted appearance of the jail lots into a thing of real beauty, and is making it produce that which is useful, and very valuable about meal times.

Mr. A. Dewey is perfecting arrangements for putting up a big flour mill at Henderson. Mr. Dewey is conceded by mill men to be one of the best millers in Southern Kentucky. It is to be regretted that he is going to leave Marion.

A few nights ago a burglar visited a number of private residences in Princeton and helped himself to the contents of the pockets of the trustees of his victims. Among the unfortunate was Mr. S. Hodge, a prominent farmer of this place.

Several persons left Tuesday to attend the Republican State Convention at Louisville. Among them were Dr. W. J. Deboe, W. B. Yandell, H. A. Hayes, Jno. T. Evans, W. D. Haynes, O. S. Young, A. M. Henry, Milt Hall.

John Parr and Bob Brown are responsible for the story that a Caldwell county farmer has been setting his tobacco and fortifying against the cut worm by wrapping a piece of paper loosely around the root of each plant before it was put in the ground.

Mrs. Thomas' music class, under her management, will give an entertainment at the School House Hall Friday night, June 7. A splendid programme has been prepared for the occasion and the public may confidently expect something good. Everybody invited.

Princeton Choral Union

The Princeton Choral Union will give a concert at the opera house at Marion Monday evening, June 10. The music will be of the very high est class, and all lovers of good music can not afford to miss it.

Mr. Nickell Will Speak.

Mr. T. J. Nickell requests us to announce that he will address the people at Marion Monday, June 10, in regard to the legislative race. The other candidates are invited, and a fair division of time will be accorded them.

Short Lived Felicity.

On May 16, Mr. Jesse Denning and Miss Eva Hobbs, of near Clayville, were united in marriage. On the 5th day thereafter they disagreed and he departed; on the third day he was recalled, and everything promised peace and happiness, but in a day or two there was another separation. It was the bride who was fickle.

A week ago Sunday a Mr. Kline, who has been representing a "Memorial Company" in this section, and Miss Effie Butler, a young lady of the Salem neighborhood, without consulting their friends, left for Tennessee. At Dover they were married and Friday they returned to Salem.

You should see those lovely baby caps at Mrs. Loving's.

Mrs. Loving has lovely new white hats just received.

Mr. O. M. James will speak at New Salem Saturday night, June 8.

Get out prints on screen doors before buying elsewhere.

A. Dewey & Co.

B. Kevil has qualified as administrator of J. H. Aarons, deceased.

Save money and buy your screen doors from A. Dewey & Co.

Jailer Hard has his one boarder—Sam Patterson—engaged in whitewashing.

No requisition papers were issued for Goode, and he has been released from the Missouri prison.

Get your building lumber from Walker & Olive.

A car load of fine white Union county corn for sale, price 50 cents per bushel.

A. Dewey & Co.

We offer for sale a pony as gentle as can be and will work anywhere, single or double.

Thomas Bros.

Mr. Jonathan Jacobs was in town Saturday, fixing his pension papers. He gets about $400 the first draw.

Monday morning Morris, Hulow and Teer, from Harold came to town and had a warrant issued charging Wm. Tabor with a breach of the peace. They report that he beat and abused a couple of boys Sunday.

Mr. T. J. Nickell spent two days in this county last week, mixing with the voters. He has been kept at home by illness in his family for several weeks, but now hopes to see some of the voters of the district.

Sam Hazel, a negro who resided in Sturgis up to a year ago, was lynched between Blackburn and Shawneetown last Friday evening. He had stolen a fine horse, which cost him his life—Sturgis Ledger.

The best gardener in the county is Lark Hard. He has transformed the deserted appearance of the jail lots into a thing of real beauty, and is making it produce that which is useful, and very valuable about meal times.

Mr. A. Dewey is perfecting arrangements for putting up a big flour mill at Henderson. Mr. Dewey is conceded by mill men to be one of the best millers in Southern Kentucky. It is to be regretted that he is going to leave Marion.

A few nights ago a burglar visited a number of private residences in Princeton and helped himself to the contents of the pockets of the trustees of his victims. Among the unfortunate was Mr. S. Hodge, a prominent farmer of this place.

Several persons left Tuesday to attend the Republican State Convention at Louisville. Among them were Dr. W. J. Deboe, W. B. Yandell, H. A. Hayes, Jno. T. Evans, W. D. Haynes, O. S. Young, A. M. Henry, Milt Hall.

John Parr and Bob Brown are responsible for the story that a Caldwell county farmer has been setting his tobacco and fortifying against the cut worm by wrapping a piece of paper loosely around the root of each plant before it was put in the ground.

Mrs. Thomas' music class, under her management, will give an entertainment at the School House Hall Friday night, June 7. A splendid programme has been prepared for the occasion and the public may confidently expect something good. Everybody invited.

Heirs to a Million.

Some Crittenden County People Who May Be Millionaires Yet,

From the Stephensville (Texas) Inquirer we clip the following. The John Zimmerman referred to moved from this county to Texas several years ago, and the Duvall spoken of is the wife of Mr. Alonzo Duvall of Marion, and Burdette Worley is the lamented wife of John Worley of this county:

The many friends of John Zimmerman in this county will be glad to know that he, together with other relatives, will soon come into possession of an immense fortune, through the death of a relative. The fortune is in land, situated in Germany, England and Austria, and amounts to $25,000,000. This right snug little sum for any man, and to one situated like Mr. Zimmerman, it no doubt looks like too much for the finite mind to grasp. John is a steady, hard working farmer, near town, who by honesty and economy has made a living for his family and accumulated some property besides. These are the kind of men who deserve the smile of fortune and we are glad to extend him our hand in congratulation. The other heirs in Erath county are Allan W. Zimmerman, Elizabeth Zimmerman, (now Harris) Amer Inniss and Burdette Worley. Messrs. Cook & Vincent of this place have been retained as counsel for the heirs. The following from the weekly Globe-Democrat of July 17, 1894, fully explains the situation:

New York, July 13.—Police Sergeant John Zimmerman, who lives at 267 Rutledge street, Williamsburg, Brooklyn, is said to be one of the heirs to a fortune valued at $25,000,000. Over sixty years ago Mrs. Milda Meunch, the grandmother of Sergeant Zimmerman, came to this country. In 1841 or 1842 she received word that her father had died, leaving all of his property to her and her sister for use during her lifetime. The survivor of the two was to inherit it all, and at her death the property was to be divided among all her descendants who might then be alive.

Mr. Meunch outlived her sister by many years, and died in Jersey City a year ago, shortly after she had celebrated her 90th birthday. She had never bothered about the property in her lifetime, believing it was of small value, and gave notice to the executors that they should let it stand for her heirs.

During these sixty years the property has increased greatly in value, as most of it was in real estate scattered about Germany, England, Austria, lots that were worth little or nothing in the time the original will was drawn, are now said to be of great value. Lawyer Hulbell, of this city, hunted the matter up and has located twenty-two heirs. One of them is Zimmerman.

Elder R. A. LaRue of this county and Miss Edith Barnes, of Sebree, of Webster county, were united in marriage at the residence of the father of the bride, Mr. Len Barnes, Wednesday morning, June 5. The couple have scores of friends in this and Livingston county who join with the Press in extending congratulations.

Commencement Exercises.

The commencement exercises of the Marion Graded School will be held at the opera house. There are some twenty or more graduates in the common school branches, each of these has to deliver an oration or read an essay, good music will be one feature and there are many other good things in the programme. Marion will attend en masse. The Press is printed too early to give any account of the splendid affair this week, but we will give a full account in the next issue.

Welfton—Davis

Repton, Ky., June 5.—Mr. James Weldon, of Cuderville, and Miss Lulu Davis, of Repton, were united in marriage at the Methodist church at Brownsville, Ind., May 18. After the ceremony they went to Cuderville, where a grand reception was given them, after remaining there some days they came to Repton, to the parents—Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Davis. The groom is a prominent farmer and business man of Cuderville. The bride is the accomplished daughter of W. P. Davis, a prominent farmer of this section.

At the regular meeting of Blackwell Lodge No. 57, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Chancellor Commander.—H. F. Ray.
Vice Chancellor.—J. F. Dodge.
Prelate.—Ed. J. S. Henry.
Master of Work.—G. M. Crider.
Master of Arms.—S. R. Adams.
District Deputy.—H. A. Haynes.
Delegate to Grand Lodge.—John T. Franks.

Deeds Recorded.

J. M. Travis to T. A. Travis, 55 acres for $650.

James King's heirs to R. W. Moore, 20 acres for $50.

F. A. Jacobs to Trustees School District No. 44, lot for $16.50.

C. C. Helene to Jacob Helene, land for $10.

Mr. David Kevil, who has purchased Mr. A. Dewey's half interest in the Marion roller mill will devote his time to the mill business, and the old patrons of the mill and the public generally may be assured that everything will be all right. Mr. Kevil has no superior as a miller in this country; he has been in the business a long time, and understands it in every detail; he is also a splendid business man, attentive and prompt. The product of the Marion roller mill and its business methods will continue to meet the approval of the public.

A telegram received here Monday announced the discharge of William Goods from jail at Charleston, Mo.

A telegram received here Monday announced the discharge of William Goods from jail at Charleston, Mo.

Gold Discovered in Blackford

Ein PRESS: Mrs. Julia McDaniels arrived in our town Wednesday, May 29, from some point in Indiana and at once instituted a search for something, no one knew what. After searching from Wednesday until Saturday noon, she was seen to look over many lots in town, and it was a curiosity to our people to know what she was in search of; but finally she went to Vaughn & Curry's mill, and proposed to buy from them two houses and lots, also their mill and mill lot; they told her the price and she at once told them it was a trade and advanced enough money to make good her word. Then she went to John G. Simpson and asked him his price on his property and he told her, so she said with a smile on her face, "that's cheap enough," and advanced enough to make good the trade, and then she went to Farmer Hurch and proposed buying his property and they agreed on the price and closed the trade, and after buying property too numerous to mention she told the parties of whom she had purchased the property that she would at once begin to dig for gold. Tuesday morning she hired all the idle men in town and began the opening of what she called a gold mine. She seems to be in good faith and says she knows exactly where the yellow metal is deposited. This woman is a mystery to us. She seems to have plenty of money to back her judgment, and is yet buying property for which she pays whatever is asked for it, and says her fortune will be made in Blackford.

Mrs. McDaniels is of Indian descent, and says that she is related to Powhatan, Pocahontas and many other famous Indians. She is very intelligent and seems to be perfectly familiar with the business world and if she goes on at the rate she is going now, it will be but a few days until she will own the town. It is quite a boom to our quiet little town and our people are much excited over the startling prospects of it soon growing into a city, and of Webster county becoming the Eldorado of the Mississippi valley. May the good begin work continue.

Longfellow.

Minutes,

District S. S. Convention of First District met in Wilson's Chapel on Saturday, June 1, 1895.

The devotional service was conducted by W. J. Hill, with several earnest prayers for an outpouring of the Holy Ghost, upon this occasion.

The first topic on the programme was how we can improve our Sunday school. The subject was ably and earnestly discussed by J. P. Hogan and others.

The second topic was the collection of money for the poor. The subject was ably and earnestly discussed by J. P. Hogan and others.

The third topic was the collection of money for the poor. The subject was ably and earnestly discussed by J. P. Hogan and others.

The fourth topic was the collection of money for the poor. The subject was ably and earnestly discussed by J. P. Hogan and others.

The fifth topic was the collection of money for the poor. The subject was ably and earnestly discussed by J. P. Hogan and others.

The sixth topic was the collection of money for the poor. The subject was ably and earnestly discussed by J. P. Hogan and others.

The seventh topic was the collection of money for the poor. The subject was ably and earnestly discussed by J. P. Hogan and others.

The eighth topic was the collection of money for the poor. The subject was ably and earnestly discussed by J. P. Hogan and others.

The ninth topic was the collection of money for the poor. The subject was ably and earnestly discussed by J. P. Hogan and others.

The tenth topic was the collection of money for the poor. The subject was ably and earnestly discussed by J. P. Hogan and others.

The eleventh topic was the collection of money for the poor. The subject was ably and earnestly discussed by J. P. Hogan and others.

The twelfth topic was the collection of money for the poor. The subject was ably and earnestly discussed by J. P. Hogan and others.

The thirteenth topic was the collection of money for the poor. The subject was ably and earnestly discussed by J. P. Hogan and others.

The fourteenth topic was the collection of money for the poor. The subject was ably and earnestly discussed by

The Press.

R. C. WALKER, Publisher.

LOCAL NEWS.

Needles, oils and supplies for all kinds of sewing machines at Pierce & Son's.

Lime at Pierce & Son's.

Shingles at Walker & Olive's.

County court next Monday.

Dr. T. H. Cositt, Dentist, Marion.

Dr. Jordan, the dentist, of Marion.

Dress and cash at Walker & Olive's.

Get a copy of Coin's Financial School at Marion.

Fly bumpers.

A. Dewey & Co.

Hair ornaments, the latest, at Mrs. Loving's.

Go to Thomas Bros. for fine ice cream and cold drinks.

Quarterly meeting at Hurricane Saturday and Sunday.

More than thirty teachers will be educated Friday and Saturday.

The baptism at the Baptist church of this place has been completed.

You should see those lovely baby caps at Mrs. Loving's.

Mrs. Loving has lovely new white hats just received.

Mr. O. M. James will speak at New Salem Saturday night, June 8.

Get out prices on screen doors before buying elsewhere.

A. Dewey & Co.

H. Kevil qualified as administrator of J. H. Ansons, deceased.

Save money and buy your screen doors from A. Dewey & Co.

Adler Hard has his one boarder—Sam Patterson engaged in white-washing.

No requisition papers were issued for Gandy, and he has been released from the Missouri prison.

Get your building lumber from Walker & Olive's.

A car load of fine white Union county corn for sale, price 50 cents per bushel.

A. Dewey & Co.

We offer for sale a pony as gentle as can be and will work anywhere, single or double.

Thomas Bros.

Mr. Jonathan Jacobs was in town Saturday, fixing his pension papers. He gets about $400 the first draw.

Monday morning Moore, Barkalow and Teer, from Harold came to town and had a warrant issued charging Wm. Taber with a breach of the peace. They report that he beat and abused a couple of boys Sunday.

Mr. T. J. Nickell spent two days in this country last week, mixing with the voters. He has been kept at home by illness in his family for several weeks, but now hopes to see some of the voters of the district.

Sam Hazel, a negro who resided in Sturgis up to a year ago, was lynched between Blackburn and Shawneetown last Friday evening. He had stolen a few horses, which cost him his life—Sturgis Ledger.

The best gardener in the county is Lark Hard. He has transformed the deserted appearance of the jail lots into a thing of real beauty, and is making it produce that which is useful, and very valuable about meal time.

Mr. A. Dewey is perfecting arrangements for putting up a big flouring mill at Henderson. Mr. Dewey succeeded in getting to be one of the best millers in Southern Kentucky. It is to be regretted that he is going to leave Marion.

A few nights ago a burglar visited a number of private residences in Princeton and helped himself to the contents of the pockets of the troupe of his victims. Among the unfortunate was Mr. S. Hodge, formerly of this place.

Several persons left Tuesday to attend the Republican State Convention at Louisville. Among them were Dr. W. J. Deboe, W. B. Yandell, R. A. Haynes, Am. T. Eranks, W. D. Haynes, O. S. Young, A. M. Henry, Milt Babb,

John Parr and Bob Brown are responsible for the story that a Caldwell county farmer has been setting his tobacco and fortifying against the entombed by wrapping a piece of paper loosely around the root of each plant before it was put in the ground.

Mrs. Thomas' music class, under her management, will give an entertainment at the School House Hall Friday night, June 7. A splendid programme has been prepared for the occasion and the public may confidently expect something good. Everybody invited.

Princeton Choral Union

The Princeton Choral Union will give a concert at the opera house at Marion Monday evening, June 10. The music will be of the very highest class, and all lovers of good music can not afford to miss it.

Mr. Nickell Will Speak.

Mr. T. J. Nickell requests us to announce that he will address the people at Marion Monday, June 10, in regard to the legislative race. The other candidates are invited, and a fair division of time will be accorded them.

Short Lived Felicity.

On May 16, Mr. Jesse Jennings and Miss Eva Dibble, of near Crayneville, were united in marriage. On the 5th day thereafter they disagreed and he departed; on the third day he was recalled, and everything promised peace and happiness, but in a day or two there was another separation. It was the bride who was sick.

A week ago Sunday a Mr. Kline, who has been representing a "Memorial Company" in that section, and Miss Ellie Butler, a young lady of the Salem neighborhood, without consulting their friends, left for Tennessee. At Dover they were married and Friday they returned to Salem.

Sunday was observed as children's day at the Methodist church; the Sunday School and preaching hours were consumed by the children's programme. Declamations and essays concerning the various branches of church work, songs and prayer service filled the time. The church was decorated with flowers, and the little folks were happy.

The trial of Gregory, Fritts and Norris, charged with "conspiring and banding together to intimidate," was called Friday, but on account of the absence of a Commonwealth witness was postponed until next Friday. Attorney A. U. Moore has been employed to assist in the prosecution and D. M. James will conduct the defense.

Elder R. A. Larue of this county and Miss Sarah Barnes, of Sebree of Webster county, were united in marriage at the residence of the father of the bride, Mr. Leo Barnes, Wednesday morning, June 5. The couple have scores of friends in this and Livingston county who join with the Press in extending congratulations.

Commencement Exercises

The commencement exercises of the Marion Graded School will be held at the opera house. There are some twenty or more graduates in the common school branches, each of these has delivered an oration or read an essay, good music will be one feature and there are many other good things in the programme. Marion will attend en masse. The Press is printed too early to give any account of the splendid affair this week, but we will give a full account in the next issue.

Weldon—Davis

Repton, Ky., June 5.—Mr. James Weldon, of Cardsville, and Miss Lula Davis, of Repton, were united in marriage at the Methodist church in Brownsville, Ind., May 1st. After the ceremony they went to Cardsville, where a grand reception was given them, after renewing there some days they came to Repton, to visit their parents—Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Davis. The groom is a prominent farmer and business man of Cardsville. The bride is the accomplished daughter of W. P. Davis, a prominent farmer of this section.

Thursday the town officers had to take a blind man in charge because of his boisterous, rowdy conduct. His name it was Smith, and he claimed to be a veterinary surgeon. He cursed and yelled and yelled and cursed while in court. His wife, who accompanied him, said that he was not drunk but hungry, and that if the court would give him a cup of nice strong, hot coffee, that it would settle his nerves and he would come around all right.

The court took a different view of the matter, however, and sent him to jail to spend the night. This evidently suited the prisoner exactly, and his wife remarked that it was usual for her to be sent to the hotel when he went to jail. The court had caught a tartar and was glad to get him out of town the next day.

Mr. David Kevil, who has purchased Mr. A. Dewey's half interest in the Marion roller mill will devote his time to the mill business, and the old patrons of the mill and the public generally may be assured that everything will be all right. Mr. Kevil has no superior as a miller in this country; he has been in the business a long time, and understands it in every detail; he is also a splendid business man, attentive and prompt. The product of the Marion roller mill and its business methods will continue to meet the approval of the people.

Deeds Recorded.

J. M. Travis to T. A. Travis, 55 acres for $500.

James King's heirs to R. W. Moore, 20 acres for $50.

F. A. Jacobs to Trustees School District No. 41, lot for $16.50.

C. C. Heine to Jacob Heine, land for $910.

Berry James, the saw mill man of this place, is putting in machinery for making all kinds of wooden barrels, hogheads, etc. This addition to his business will afford a market for a great deal of timber that has always been worthless heretofore in this section. In a few weeks the machine will be at work.

Quarterly Meeting.

The third quarterly meeting for the Marion circuit M. E. church, South, will be held at Hurricane next Saturday and Sunday, June 8 and 9. Rev. B. F. Orr will preach at the Methodist church in Marion next Sunday evening at 8 o'clock.

J. D. Fraser, P. C.

We bought our fruit jars last season at bottom prices, and since the great advance in prices we can sell you cheaper than any one; eat and get our prices.

Rev. W. H. Miley will preach at Deans School house the third Sunday afternoon at 3:30 and at night,

BEARS TO A MILLION.

Some Crittenden County People Who May be Millionaires Yet.

From the Stephensville (Texas) Inquirer we clip the following. The John Zimmerman referred to moved from this county to Texas several years ago, and the Duvall spoken of is the wife of Mr. Alonzo Duvall of Marion, and Burtie Worley is the lamented wife of John Worley of this county:

The many friends of John Zimmerman in this county will be glad to know that he, together with other relatives, will soon come into possession of an immense fortune, through the death of a relative. The fortune is in land, situated in Germany, England and Austria, and amounts to $25,000,000. This a right snug little sum for any man, and to one situated like Mr. Zimmerman, it no doubt looks like too much for the finite mind to grasp. John is a steady, hard working farmer, near town, who by honest and economy has made a living for his family and accumulated some property besides. These are the kind of men who deserve the smile of fortune and we are glad to extend him our hand in congratulation. The other heirs in Bracken county are Alonzo W. Zimmerman, Elizabeth Zimmerman, (now Harris) Ander Duvall and Burtie Worley. Messrs. Cook & Vincent of this place have been retained as counsel for the heirs. The following from the weekly Globe-Democrat of July 17, 1894, fully explains the situation:

New York, July 13.—Police Sergeant John Zimmerman, who lives at 207 Rutledge street, Williamsburg, Brooklyn, is said to be one of the heirs to a fortune valued at $25,000,000. Over sixty years ago Mrs. Matilda Meunich, the grandmother of Sergeant Zimmerman, came to this country. In 1811 or 1812 she received word that her father had died, leaving all of his property to her and her sister for use during her lifetime. The survivor of the two was to inherit all, and at her death the property was to be divided among all her descendants who might then be alive.

Mrs. Meunich outlived her sister by many years, and died in Jersey City a year ago, shortly after she had celebrated her 96th birthday. She had never bothered about the property in her lifetime, believing it was of small value, and gave notice to the executors that they should let it stand for her heirs.

During these sixty years the property has increased greatly in value, as most of it was in real estate scattered about Germany, England, Austria, Lots that were worth little or nothing at the time the original will was drawn, are now said to be of great value. Lawyer Hubbard, of this city, hunted the master up and has located twenty-two heirs. One of them is Zimmerman.

Longfellow.

Minutes.

District S. S. Convention of First District met in Wilson's Chapel on Saturday, June 1, 1895.

The devotional service was conducted by W. J. Hill, with several earnest prayers for an outpouring of the Holy Ghost, upon this occasion.

The first topic on the programme was how can we improve our Sunday school. The subject was able and earnestly discussed by J. P. Hogard and others.

There being no singing classes present except the Wilson Chapel class, it made the music for the occasion.

The district president H. S. Wheeler then made his report, which showed up well for this district.

Reports of individual schools were

not so good as they might have been

only two in the district being reported which were very good.

The two reports made by their superintendents were Sue Phillips, of Wilson Chapel, and Newt Lamb, of Sugar Grove school, which reports were encouraging for their schools.

The choir sang Resurrection Morning.

The moderator then announced intermission for one hour and a half, which time was spent in a hearty reception of the bountiful repast that was spread before the multitude.

The district president H. S. Wheeler then made his report, which showed up well for this district.

Reports of individual schools were

not so good as they might have been

only two in the district being reported which were very good.

The two reports made by their superintendents were Sue Phillips, of Wilson Chapel, and Newt Lamb, of Sugar Grove school, which reports were encouraging for their schools.

The choir sang Resurrection Morning.

The convention then closed with benedictory prayer by M. H. Miley.

M. H. Miley, Moderator.

S. D. Jacobs, Secretary.

Chancellor Commander.—H. F. Ray.

Vice Chancellor.—J. F. Dodge.

Prelate.—E. J. S. Henry.

Master of Work.—G. M. Crider.

Master of Arms.—S. R. Adams.

District Deputy.—H. A. Cossitt.

Delegate to Grand Lodge.—John T. Franks.

T. Frank.

Deeds Recorded.

J. M. Travis to T. A. Travis, 55 acres for $500.

James King's heirs to R. W. Moore, 20 acres for $50.

F. A. Jacobs to Trustees School

District No. 41, lot for $16.50.

C. C. Heine to Jacob Heine, land for $910.

Berry James, the saw mill man of this place, is putting in machinery for making all kinds of wooden barrels, hogheads, etc. This addition to his business will afford a market for a great deal of timber that has always been worthless heretofore in this section. In a few weeks the machine will be at work.

Mr. David Kevil, who has purchased

Mr. A. Dewey's half interest in the Marion roller mill will devote his time to the mill business, and the old patrons of the mill and the public generally may be assured that everything will be all right.

Mr. Kevil has no superior as a miller in this country; he has been in the business a long time, and understands

it in every detail; he is also a splendiful business man, attentive and prompt. The product of the Marion roller mill and its business methods

MINISTERS OF THE GOSPEL ENDORSE
Electropoise.

Rev. John Rogers, Danville, Ky.
It is a mystery to me, almost a miracle.

Rev. Z. Merck, Cynthiamburg, Ky.—I have used the Electropoise for five years and find it invaluable as a curative agent, especially is it efficacious in cases of feeble women and delicate children.

Rev. Robert Barrett, Louisville Baptist Seminary—Electropoise cured all other remedies failed.

Rev. W. W. Bruce, Houstonville, Ky.—Electropoise cured spinal infirm.

Rev. Geo. Means, Covington, Ky.—In one night Electropoise relieved brain congestion and vertigo.

We could fill this paper with similar reports, but think this sufficient to interest you in sending for book or the subject of health. Electropoise retailed four months for $10.

DETROITS & WEBB,
509 Fourth Avenue, Louisville, Ky.

Commissioner's Notice.

All persons having claims against the estate of W. G. Koon, deceased, are hereby notified to present same, properly proven, at my office in Marion, Ky., on or before June 15, 1895. All claims not thus presented will be by law forever barred.

April 23, 1895. A. Wilborn, Commissioner.

Commissioner's Notice.

All persons having claims against the estate of A. A. Crider, deceased, are hereby notified to present same, properly proven, at my office in Marion, Ky., on or before June 15, 1895. All claims not thus presented will be by law forever disbursed.

April 23, 1895. A. Wilborn, Commissioner.

Commissioner's Notice.

All persons having claims against the estate of S. O. Nunn, deceased, are hereby notified to present same, properly proven, at my office in Marion, Ky., on or before June 15, 1895. All claims not thus presented will be by law forever disbursed.

April 23, 1895. A. Wilborn, Commissioner.

Notice.

All persons having claims against the estate of Thomas Smith, deceased, are hereby notified and will take notice that they are required to present their claims, properly proven, on or before the 1st day of July, 1895, and all claims not presented by that date will be barred. This April 20, 1895.

A. S. Hurd, Adm'r.

In Poor Health

means so much more than you imagine—serious and fatal diseases result from trifling ailments neglected.

Don't play with Nature's greatest gift—health.

Browns
Iron
Bitters

It Cures

Dyspepsia, Kidney and Liver Troubles, Constipation, Flatulence, Malaria, New and Old Complaints.

Get only the genuine—Browns Iron Bitters. Two sizes will send sets of Ten Beautiful Pictures and Look-Free.

BROWN CHEMICAL CO., BALTIMORE, MD.

ONLY A RUSH.

An Eastern Fancy.
Twas only a rush by the hand of lowly birth,
And one who had never seen a world.
Near by where the antelope came off to drink,
And foot-weary travelers gratefully saved.

Twas only a rush, but its broad leaf was green,

And it was plucked by a pilgrim with heart full of pride,

For it made for his head a most excellent hat,

As he led his slow way in the sun's fiery latitudes.

More beautiful far to the pilgrim it seemed,

Than the stately flower in Arabia's land,

More precious than jewels it was deemed,

For it said "I am death in the desert's land."

These young a rush in the desert of life,

Left trail of the gaudy and the plain,

Worth actions of heroes when trouble is near.

When in the south's desert or raked by trials pain.

Care for these rushes? Their beauty will last,

When that of other flowers has faded away,

Albeit beauty of form must surely perish,

While beauty of soul will last even longer.

—James St. Deonan, in "Tales of the Desert."

A RIMAU DAHAN.

The Adventure of Two Little Girls in Sumatra.

Near the southeastern point of Sumatra, on the island of Sumatra, the two little Indian girls, the daughters of a American family, whom I will call, respectively, Mowbray and Sherwood, the head of the former having a coffee plantation and that of the latter a large acre of rice fields.

There were two little girls, one child, the many bay of sixteen, while the Sherwoods were the happy parents of two charming little girls, the elder named Lillian and the younger, Lulu.

Many years ago, while making a prolonged stay in southern Sumatra, and an exploration of some of the smaller islands, I had the good fortune to meet with both these families, and was much surprised to find that neither knew of the other's existence, though their estates were separated only by a wide bay, running not very far inland.

This state of things I determined to remedy on the earliest opportunity, fearing that these two sisters in a strange land, my own countrymen, would take much comfort in each other's society. But the pleasant task of introduction was taken out of my hands in an unexpected and rather singular manner. One day Lillian and Ernest Mowbray, in a series of misadventures, had wandered away, separated from their parents, and were gathering flowers along the edge of a bridle path, which ran through a luxuriant grove of coconut palms and wild orange trees, when they were so startled by the sudden appearance of a large tiger, which had crept up behind them on a gallop, that they involuntarily screamed out in affright.

The tiger, a bright-faced boy, carrying a silver-mounted rifle, and bestriding a beautiful Arab mare, instantly drew up, raised his hat, and said: "I'm your guardian, young ladies! I'm your father, the ruler of your home! I did not see you at all. My name is Ernest Mowbray. My father is a coffee planter, and we live about six miles from here, on the other side of the big bayon."

"Oh, we're not a bit frightened," said Mrs. Sherwood, little girls. Our parents have these rice fields over there, and it's only a little way to our house. We were just picking some of these flowers; they're so different from those in our own country. We came from the United States of America only two months ago, and everything here seems very strange to us."

While the child was speaking, Ernest removed his hat entirely; and when she uttered the words "United States" with such evident pride he smiled delightedly, bent almost to his saddle bow, apologized once more, and rode slowly away.

"What a nice, polite boy, he speaks English, too, not that horrid Dutch, Malay and Chinese we hear every day!" exclaimed Lillian.

"Yes, and he called us young ladies!" chimed in Lulu.

"Well, I suppose we are young ladies; I'm past that, and you're nearly as old as I am," rejoined Lillian. "But I wish the boy had stayed longer, so we could have a good look at his pretty gun and that lovely horse! I don't suppose we'll ever see him again, though—" wherein the small wifl was greatly mistaken.

After this, the children left the path, and, always惶惶 something new to admire, strayed deeper into the wood. By and by, as they came to a cleared space, evidently an old Malay or native field, wherein grew only a few huge wild orange trees and a dozen or two of green cacti. As they were passing, the tiger, who had followed Lillian out, "oh, sir! said a most curious-looking dog lying under the big cactus. He's got a pretty red bird between his paws and the stain of their tears on their pale cheeks, were none the worse for their perilous adventure.

After both had shudderingly admired the brilliant coat of their late enemy, and Lillian had at least tried to thank the tiger for his protection, the two innocents walked straight on, a full-grown "clouded" or "tiger-striped" cub.

This creature, really a species of leopard, and found only in Sumatra, is called by the natives "rimau dahan," a name which means, I believe, a climber of forked trees. During my stay on the island I saw but one, and that was a small cub, and I was greatly strengthened in my belief that the "tiger" was a female.

After this, the children left the path, and, always惶惶 something new to admire, strayed deeper into the wood. By and by, as they came to a cleared space, evidently an old Malay or native field, wherein grew only a few huge wild orange trees and a dozen or two of green cacti. As they were passing, the tiger, who had followed Lillian out, "oh, sir! said a most curious-looking dog lying under the big cactus. He's got a pretty red bird between his paws and the stain of their tears on their pale cheeks, were none the worse for their perilous adventure.

After both had shudderingly admired the brilliant coat of their late enemy, and Lillian had at least tried to thank the tiger for his protection, the two innocents walked straight on, a full-grown "clouded" or "tiger-striped" cub.

This creature, really a species of

leopard, and found only in Sumatra, is called by the natives "rimau dahan," a name which means, I believe, a climber of forked trees. During my stay on the island I saw but one, and that was a small cub, and I was greatly strengthened in my belief that the "tiger" was a female.

This creature, really a species of

leopard, and found only in Sumatra, is called by the natives "rimau dahan," a name which means, I believe, a climber of forked trees. During my stay on the island I saw but one, and that was a small cub, and I was greatly strengthened in my belief that the "tiger" was a female.

This creature, really a species of

leopard, and found only in Sumatra, is called by the natives "rimau dahan," a name which means, I believe, a climber of forked trees. During my stay on the island I saw but one, and that was a small cub, and I was greatly strengthened in my belief that the "tiger" was a female.

This creature, really a species of

leopard, and found only in Sumatra, is called by the natives "rimau dahan," a name which means, I believe, a climber of forked trees. During my stay on the island I saw but one, and that was a small cub, and I was greatly strengthened in my belief that the "tiger" was a female.

This creature, really a species of

leopard, and found only in Sumatra, is called by the natives "rimau dahan," a name which means, I believe, a climber of forked trees. During my stay on the island I saw but one, and that was a small cub, and I was greatly strengthened in my belief that the "tiger" was a female.

This creature, really a species of

leopard, and found only in Sumatra, is called by the natives "rimau dahan," a name which means, I believe, a climber of forked trees. During my stay on the island I saw but one, and that was a small cub, and I was greatly strengthened in my belief that the "tiger" was a female.

This creature, really a species of

leopard, and found only in Sumatra, is called by the natives "rimau dahan," a name which means, I believe, a climber of forked trees. During my stay on the island I saw but one, and that was a small cub, and I was greatly strengthened in my belief that the "tiger" was a female.

This creature, really a species of

leopard, and found only in Sumatra, is called by the natives "rimau dahan," a name which means, I believe, a climber of forked trees. During my stay on the island I saw but one, and that was a small cub, and I was greatly strengthened in my belief that the "tiger" was a female.

This creature, really a species of

leopard, and found only in Sumatra, is called by the natives "rimau dahan," a name which means, I believe, a climber of forked trees. During my stay on the island I saw but one, and that was a small cub, and I was greatly strengthened in my belief that the "tiger" was a female.

This creature, really a species of

leopard, and found only in Sumatra, is called by the natives "rimau dahan," a name which means, I believe, a climber of forked trees. During my stay on the island I saw but one, and that was a small cub, and I was greatly strengthened in my belief that the "tiger" was a female.

This creature, really a species of

leopard, and found only in Sumatra, is called by the natives "rimau dahan," a name which means, I believe, a climber of forked trees. During my stay on the island I saw but one, and that was a small cub, and I was greatly strengthened in my belief that the "tiger" was a female.

This creature, really a species of

leopard, and found only in Sumatra, is called by the natives "rimau dahan," a name which means, I believe, a climber of forked trees. During my stay on the island I saw but one, and that was a small cub, and I was greatly strengthened in my belief that the "tiger" was a female.

This creature, really a species of

leopard, and found only in Sumatra, is called by the natives "rimau dahan," a name which means, I believe, a climber of forked trees. During my stay on the island I saw but one, and that was a small cub, and I was greatly strengthened in my belief that the "tiger" was a female.

This creature, really a species of

leopard, and found only in Sumatra, is called by the natives "rimau dahan," a name which means, I believe, a climber of forked trees. During my stay on the island I saw but one, and that was a small cub, and I was greatly strengthened in my belief that the "tiger" was a female.

This creature, really a species of

leopard, and found only in Sumatra, is called by the natives "rimau dahan," a name which means, I believe, a climber of forked trees. During my stay on the island I saw but one, and that was a small cub, and I was greatly strengthened in my belief that the "tiger" was a female.

This creature, really a species of

leopard, and found only in Sumatra, is called by the natives "rimau dahan," a name which means, I believe, a climber of forked trees. During my stay on the island I saw but one, and that was a small cub, and I was greatly strengthened in my belief that the "tiger" was a female.

This creature, really a species of

leopard, and found only in Sumatra, is called by the natives "rimau dahan," a name which means, I believe, a climber of forked trees. During my stay on the island I saw but one, and that was a small cub, and I was greatly strengthened in my belief that the "tiger" was a female.

This creature, really a species of

leopard, and found only in Sumatra, is called by the natives "rimau dahan," a name which means, I believe, a climber of forked trees. During my stay on the island I saw but one, and that was a small cub, and I was greatly strengthened in my belief that the "tiger" was a female.

This creature, really a species of

leopard, and found only in Sumatra, is called by the natives "rimau dahan," a name which means, I believe, a climber of forked trees. During my stay on the island I saw but one, and that was a small cub, and I was greatly strengthened in my belief that the "tiger" was a female.

This creature, really a species of

leopard, and found only in Sumatra, is called by the natives "rimau dahan," a name which means, I believe, a climber of forked trees. During my stay on the island I saw but one, and that was a small cub, and I was greatly strengthened in my belief that the "tiger" was a female.

This creature, really a species of

leopard, and found only in Sumatra, is called by the natives "rimau dahan," a name which means, I believe, a climber of forked trees. During my stay on the island I saw but one, and that was a small cub, and I was greatly strengthened in my belief that the "tiger" was a female.

This creature, really a species of

leopard, and found only in Sumatra, is called by the natives "rimau dahan," a name which means, I believe, a climber of forked trees. During my stay on the island I saw but one, and that was a small cub, and I was greatly strengthened in my belief that the "tiger" was a female.

This creature, really a species of

leopard, and found only in Sumatra, is called by the natives "rimau dahan," a name which means, I believe, a climber of forked trees. During my stay on the island I saw but one, and that was a small cub, and I was greatly strengthened in my belief that the "tiger" was a female.

This creature, really a species of

leopard, and found only in Sumatra, is called by the natives "rimau dahan," a name which means, I believe, a climber of forked trees. During my stay on the island I saw but one, and that was a small cub, and I was

MINISTERS OF THE GOSPEL
ENDORSE
Electropoise.

Rev. John Rodgers, Danville, Ky.
It is a mystery to me, almost a miracle.

Rev. Z. Meek, Cynthiaburg, Ky.—I have used the Electropoise for five years and find it invaluable as a curative agent, especially if it is injections in cases of feeble women and delicate children.

Rev. Robert Barrett, Louisville Baptist Seminary—Electropoise cured other all other remedial habits.

Rev. W. W. Bone, Huntington, Ky.—Electropoise cured opium habit.

Rev. Geo. Means, Covington, Ky.—In one night Electropoise relieved brain congestion and vertigo.

We could fill this paper with similar reports, but think this sufficient to interest you in sending for book or the subject of health. Electropoise is sold four months for $10.

DUGOIS & WEBB,
509 Fourth Avenue, Louisville, Ky.

Commissioner's Notice.

All persons having claims against the estate of W. G. Koon, deceased, are hereby notified to present same, properly proven, at my office in Marion, Ky., on or before June 15, 1895. All claims not thus presented will be by law forever barred.

April 23, '95. A. Wilborn, Commissioner.

Commissioner's Notice.

All persons having claims against the estate of A. A. Crider, deceased, are hereby notified to present, properly proven, at my office in Marion, Ky., on or before June 17, 1895. All claims not thus presented will be by law forever disbursed.

April 23, '95. A. Wilborn, Commissioner.

Commissioner's Notice.

All persons having claims against the estate of S. O. Nunn, deceased, are hereby notified to present same, properly proven at my office in Marion, Ky., on or before June 15, 1895. All claims not thus presented will be by law forever disbursed.

April 23, '95. A. Wilborn, Commissioner.

Notice.

All persons having claims against the estate of Thomas Smith, deceased, are hereby notified and will take notice that they are required to present their claims, properly proven, on or before the 1st day of July, 1895, and all claims not presented by that date will be barred. This April 20, 1895.

A. S. Hard, Adm'r.

In Poor Health

means so much more than you imagine—serious and fatal diseases result from trifling ailments neglected.

Don't play with Nature's greatest gift—health.

Brown's
Iron
Bitters

It Cures

Dyspepsia, Kidney and Liver Neuralgia, Troubles, Constipation, Bad Blood
Malaria, Nervous Complaints

Get only the genuine—it has crossed the ocean on the wrapper. All others are substituted. On receipt of two 2c stamps we will send you a free sample. Fair Views and book-free.

BROWN CHEMICAL CO., BALTIMORE, MD.

ONLY A RUSH.

An Eastern Poem.
"Twas only a rush, but its broad leaf was green,
And one of a leaf that mostly waves,
Near by where the antelope came out to drink,
And foot-weary travelers gratefully tarred.

"Twas only a rush, but its broad leaf was green,
And was plucked by a pilgrim with heart full of praise,
For it made for his head a most excellent
As he toiled his slow way in the sun's fearful heat.

More useful far in the pilgrim it seemed
Then the splendid flower in Arable's
More precious than jewels by him it was deemed,
For it saved him from death in the desert's sand.

There comes a rush in the river of life,
Like that of the Ganges, as humble and plain,
Worth millions of flowers when trouble is
When in the soul's desert or racked by brute pain.

Care well for those rushes! Their beauty will
What that of more flowers has faded away,
All beauty of form must surely decline,
While beauty of soul will last ever and aye.

—James M. Brown, in Union Signal.

A RIMAU DAHAN.

The Adventure of Two Little Girls in Sumatra.

Near the southeastern point of Sumatra, one of the largest islands of the East Indian archipelago, there lived, a few years ago, two little girls, the daughters of two American families, whom I will call, respectively, Monbray and Sherwood, the head of the former owning a coffee plantation and that of the latter a large area of rice fields.

The Monbrays had but one child, a fine, manly boy of sixteen, while the Sherwoods had two girls, the elder named Lillian and the younger, LuLu. Many years ago, while making a prolonged stay in southern Sumatra and an exploration of some of the smaller adjacent islands, I became acquainted with both these families, and was much struck by the fact that neither knew of the other's existence, though their estates were separated only by a wide bayou, running not very far inland.

This state of things I determined to remedy on the earliest opportunity, feeling sure that these "strangers in a strange land"—my own countrymen—would take kindly to each other's ways. But the plan of introduction was taken out of my hands in an unexpected and rather singular manner. One day Lillian and Lulu Sherwood, even in search of novelties, had wandered, unattended, nearly a mile from home and were gathering flowers along the edge of a bank, when they saw there a luxuriant grove of coconut palms and wild orange trees, when they were startled by the sudden appearance of a horseman, couloing around a bend in the path on a gallop, that they involuntarily screamed out in affright.

The rider, a bright-faced boy, carrying a long rifle, had stopped, and, after dismounting, had run up to the bank, where he had sprang into the fork of a wild orange tree, which was precisely what Ernest wanted, as he had feared to fire at it while in such close proximity to the children, lest, being not instantly killed by the first shot, it might, in its death struggles, do them a mischief.

"Oh, we're not a bit frightened, now," replied Lillian. "We are Mrs. Sherwood's little girls. Our papas own those rice fields over there, and it's only a little way to our house. We were just picking some of these flowers, just so different from those in the States, America only two months ago, and everything here seems very strange to us."

While the child was speaking, Ernest removed his hat entirely; and when she uttered the words "United States" with such evident pride he saluted gallantly, bent almost to his saddle horn, and said once more, and rode slowly away.

"My! what a nice, polite boy; he speaks English, too; not that horrid Dutch, Malay and Chinese we hear every day!" exclaimed Lillian.

"Yes, and he called us young ladies!" cried Lulu.

"Well, I'm sure we are young ladies; I'm not fat, and you're nicely slim," sagely replied Lillian. "But I do wish the boy had stayed longer, so we could have a good look at his pretty gun and that lovely horse." I don't suppose we'll ever see him again, though—"when the small maid was greatly mistaken.

After a little, the children left the path and, always finding something new to admire, strayed deeper into the wood. By mud by them came to a cleared space, evidently an old Malay camp or maize field, wherein grew only a few huge wild orange trees and a cluster of great cacti. As they walked toward a group of these last, Lulu cried out: "Oh, sister! see that curious-looking dog lying under the big cactus. He's got a pretty red bird between his paws and is going to eat it. Let's go and drive him away."

And the two innocents walked straight toward a small, young "clouded" or "tor-toiseshell" dog.

This creature, really a species of leopard, and found only in Sumatra, is called by the natives "rimau daham," a name which means, a climber of forked trees. During my stay on the island I saw but two specimens of this, one of the rarest and most beautiful of cat familiars.

The animal is as large as the leopard of India, and of similar arboreal habits, though ordinarily not so fierce and dangerous. Its markings are quite unique, somewhat resembling those of the true tiger and leopard, and yet not precisely similar to either, presenting, as they do, a strange admixture of the like-like leopard-like spots and stripes.

Patches, resembling those of the jaguar. The general ground color of the fur is gray, and along the back of an adult rimau daham run two bands of deep black, extending from the head to the root of the tail, which last is very long and covered by shark rings, not greatly dissimilar to those of the American raccoon. The creature's legs are singularly powerful and its talons long and sharp, so that, if so inclined, it can prove a terrible foe to man or beast. And, finally, I may pray, I was told by Sumatra hunters, only upon birds, monkeys, the young of deer and other weak animals.

When the little flower pickers got close to the supposed dog, Lillian said: "Why, I do, that is not a dog at all! It looks like some of the wild beasts we've seen pictures of. Look how its tail is扭ing and its tail pointing out. Just like our old cat when she's angry, and oh! it's beginning to snarl and growl. Let's run away! It might eat us up!"

But so soon as the children turned to fly, the rimau daham, which had been so easily hit, itself set out in an untiring, bold, courageous, and, with a long, light bound, pounced upon them, knocking both down with two apparently playful taps of its paws, in which as yet, it kept its formidable claws compactly sheathed.

Then, seemingly delighted with such novel sport, it began to leap and bound, and, as it did so, it would roll them gently round and over, wondering, whether their outward covering—neither fur nor feathers—could possibly be crushed. At first the poor children were so paralysed with fright that they could not cry out, but, soon both began to scream, "Mama! mama! papa! Come, come, come quick!"

So far from frightening the "tiger," these cries seemed merely to make it angry. It began to handle the captives a little more roughly, sometimes protruding its claws, and, switching its great tail excitedly from side to side, it began to snap at the children's arms, and the rimau daham, no longer irritated by their cries, stood a few feet away, attentively watching them when, swift as a falcon, it leaped over to the children, least, being not instantly killed by the first shot, it might, in its death struggles, do them a mischief.

But by the time the gallant pair had checked their headlong speed and were again in a position to defend themselves, the rimau daham had sprung into the fork of a wild orange tree, which was precisely what Ernest wanted, as he had feared to fire at it while in such close proximity to the children, least, being not instantly killed by the first shot, it might, in its death struggles, do them a mischief.

So far, we were still sitting in the saddle, he raised his rifle, took deliberate aim at a spot just below the animal's ear, and pulled the trigger. No need for the second cartridge, which he instantly threw up to the breech chamber; for a rifleman who had "barred" tiny red squirrels in the tops of palm trees, and bisected them with a single bullet, could easily do the same with a single shot.

But the bullet, striking square and true, passed clear through the creature's brain and, without so much as a single miau, it dropped to the earth, stone dead.

Then, hurriedly dismounting, the young sportsman ran to pass the life-giving darting to the children, least, that was at all hurt. The innocent, youthful little misses had not learned how to faint, and, beyond the tolling of their dainty frocks and the stain of tears on their pale cheeks, were none the worse for their perilous adventure.

After both had shudderingly admired the gallant pair had dismounted, the young sportsman ran to pass the life-giving darting to the children, least, that was at all hurt. The innocent, youthful little misses had not learned how to faint, and, beyond the tolling of their dainty frocks and the stain of tears on their pale cheeks, were none the worse for their perilous adventure.

"Well, I'm sure we are young ladies; I'm not fat, and you're nicely slim," sagely replied Lillian. "But I do wish the boy had stayed longer, so we could have a good look at his pretty gun and that lovely horse." I don't suppose we'll ever see him again, though—"when the small maid was greatly mistaken.

After a little, the children left the path and, always finding something new to admire, strayed deeper into the wood. By mud by them came to a cleared space, evidently an old Malay camp or maize field, wherein grew only a few huge wild orange trees and a cluster of great cacti. As they walked toward a group of these last, Lulu cried out: "Oh, sister! see that curious-looking dog lying under the big cactus. He's got a pretty red bird between his paws and is going to eat it. Let's go and drive him away."

And the two innocents walked straight toward a small, young "clouded" or "tor-toiseshell" dog.

This creature, really a species of leopard, and found only in Sumatra, is called by the natives "rimau daham," a name which means, a climber of forked trees. During my stay on the island I saw but two specimens of this, one of the rarest and most beautiful of cat familiars.

The animal is as large as the leopard of India, and of similar arboreal habits, though ordinarily not so fierce and dangerous. Its markings are quite unique, somewhat resembling those of the true tiger and leopard, and yet not precisely similar to either, presenting, as they do, a strange admixture of the like-like leopard-like spots and stripes.

Patches, resembling those of the jaguar. The general ground color of the fur is gray, and along the back of an adult rimau daham run two bands of

ROAD IMPROVEMENT.

CRUSHED STONE ROADS.

What is Illinois Road Commissioner Know About Them?

Our gravel beds, which a few years ago supplied us with excellent gravel, gradually decreased in quality, and the roads became less and less good.

It had to be done, and our commissioners have been doing it ever since.

They have been turning out a yard of stone road material every five minutes.

They burn a traction engine at $8 a day, and furnish labor.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the same time.

The horses and mules have another master at the

MINISTERS OF THE GOSPEL
ENDORSE
Electropoise.

Rev. John Rodgers, Danville, Ky.
It is a mystery to me, almost a miracle.

Rev. Z. Meek, Cynthiana, Ky.—I have used the Electropoise for five years and find it invaluable as a curative agent, especially in its efficaciousness in cases of feeble women and delicate children.

Rev. Robert Barrett, Louisville Baptist Seminary—Electropoise cured after all other remedies failed.

Rev. W. W. Brue, Houstonville, Ky.—Elctropoise cured opium habit.

Rev. Geo. Means, Covington, Ky.—In one night Electropoise relieved brain congestion and vertigo.

We could fill this paper with similar reports, but think this sufficient to interest you in sending for book on the subject of health. Electropoise rented four months for $10.

DEBOIS & WEBB,
509 Fourth Avenue, Louisville, Ky.

Commissioner's Notice.

All persons having claims against the estate of W. G. Koon, deceased, are hereby notified to present same, properly proven, at my office in Marion, Ky., on or before June 15, 1895. All claims not thus presented will be by law forever barred.

April 23, 1895. A. Wilborn, Commissioner.

Commissioner's Notice.

All persons having claims against the estate of A. A. Crider, deceased, are hereby notified to present same, properly proven, at my office in Marion, Ky., on or before June 15, 1895. All claims not thus presented will be by law forever disbursed.

April 23, 1895. A. Wilborn, Commissioner.

Commissioner's Notice.

All persons having claims against the estate of S. O. Nunn, deceased, are hereby notified to present same, properly proven, at my office in Marion, Ky., on or before June 15, 1895. All claims not thus presented will be by law forever disbursed.

April 23, 1895. A. Wilborn, Commissioner.

Notice.

All persons having claims against the estate of Thomas Smith, deceased, are hereby notified and will take notice that they are required to present their claims, properly proven, or before the 1st day of July, 1895, and all claims not presented by that date will be barred. This April 20, 1895.

A. S. Hard, Adm'r.

In Poor Health

means so much more than you imagine—serious and fatal diseases result from trifling ailments neglected. Don't play with Nature's greatest gift—health.

Brown's Iron Bitters

It Cures
Dyspepsia, Kidney and Liver Troubles, Constipation, Bad Blood, Malaria, Nervous affections, Women's complaints.

Get only the genuine—it has crossed the Atlantic. All others are substitutes. On receipt of 25c we will send set of Ten Beautiful World's Best Pictures.

BROWN CHEMICAL CO., BALTIMORE, MD.

WALKER & OLIVE,
Furniture,
Coffins
and Building Lumber.

ONLY A RUSH.

An Eastern Fancier.
There only a Rush, but the Ganges is bright,
And one of a leaf, which is very rare,
Near by where the antelope came out to drink,
And too weary travelers gratefully layed.

Two only a rush, but its broad leaf was green,
And was plucked by a pilgrim with heart
Full of praise.

For it made for his head a most excellent
crown,
As though it blow way in the sun's heat
In India.

More beautiful far to the pilgrim it seemed
Than the splendid dower in Araida's land.

Many colors than jewels by him it was deemed.

For it saved him from death in the desert
With sand.

There's many a rush in the river of life,
Like that of the Ganges, as humble and worth millions of flowers when trouble is rite.

Waste in the soul's desert, or racked by brute pain.

Care well for these rushes! Their beauty will shine.

When there were flowers he faded away;

When there were none he faded away.

White beauty of soil will never end age.

James M. Bronson, in Union Signals.

A RIMA DAHAN.

The Adventure of Two Little
Girls in Sumatra.

NEAR the southeastern point of Sumatra, one of the largest islands of the East Indian archipelago, there lived, a few miles inland from Sunda Strait, two American families whom I will call, respectively, Moonbay and Sherwood, the head of the former owning a coffee plantation and that of the latter a sugar plantation.

The Moonbays had but one child, a small boy of sixteen, while the Sherwoods were the happy parents of two charming little girls, the elder named Lillian and the younger, Lulu.

Many years ago, while making a prolonged stay in southern Sumatra and an exploration of some of the smaller islands, I had the good fortune to meet with both these families, and was much surprised to find that neither knew of the other's existence, though their estates were separated only by a wide bayou, running not very far inland.

This state of things I determined to remedy on the earliest opportunity, feeling sure that these "strangers in a strange land" would be greatly pleased to make each other's acquaintance.

The Moonbays had but one child, a small boy of sixteen, while the Sherwoods were the happy parents of two charming little girls, the elder named Lillian and the younger, Lulu.

Many years ago, while making a prolonged stay in southern Sumatra and an exploration of some of the smaller islands, I had the good fortune to meet with both these families, and was much surprised to find that neither knew of the other's existence, though their estates were separated only by a wide bayou, running not very far inland.

This state of things I determined to remedy on the earliest opportunity, feeling sure that these "strangers in a strange land" would be greatly pleased to make each other's acquaintance.

The Moonbays had but one child, a small boy of sixteen, while the Sherwoods were the happy parents of two charming little girls, the elder named Lillian and the younger, Lulu.

Many years ago, while making a prolonged stay in southern Sumatra and an exploration of some of the smaller islands, I had the good fortune to meet with both these families, and was much surprised to find that neither knew of the other's existence, though their estates were separated only by a wide bayou, running not very far inland.

This state of things I determined to remedy on the earliest opportunity, feeling sure that these "strangers in a strange land" would be greatly pleased to make each other's acquaintance.

The Moonbays had but one child, a small boy of sixteen, while the Sherwoods were the happy parents of two charming little girls, the elder named Lillian and the younger, Lulu.

Many years ago, while making a prolonged stay in southern Sumatra and an exploration of some of the smaller islands, I had the good fortune to meet with both these families, and was much surprised to find that neither knew of the other's existence, though their estates were separated only by a wide bayou, running not very far inland.

This state of things I determined to remedy on the earliest opportunity, feeling sure that these "strangers in a strange land" would be greatly pleased to make each other's acquaintance.

The Moonbays had but one child, a small boy of sixteen, while the Sherwoods were the happy parents of two charming little girls, the elder named Lillian and the younger, Lulu.

Many years ago, while making a prolonged stay in southern Sumatra and an exploration of some of the smaller islands, I had the good fortune to meet with both these families, and was much surprised to find that neither knew of the other's existence, though their estates were separated only by a wide bayou, running not very far inland.

This state of things I determined to remedy on the earliest opportunity, feeling sure that these "strangers in a strange land" would be greatly pleased to make each other's acquaintance.

The Moonbays had but one child, a small boy of sixteen, while the Sherwoods were the happy parents of two charming little girls, the elder named Lillian and the younger, Lulu.

Many years ago, while making a prolonged stay in southern Sumatra and an exploration of some of the smaller islands, I had the good fortune to meet with both these families, and was much surprised to find that neither knew of the other's existence, though their estates were separated only by a wide bayou, running not very far inland.

This state of things I determined to remedy on the earliest opportunity, feeling sure that these "strangers in a strange land" would be greatly pleased to make each other's acquaintance.

The Moonbays had but one child, a small boy of sixteen, while the Sherwoods were the happy parents of two charming little girls, the elder named Lillian and the younger, Lulu.

Many years ago, while making a prolonged stay in southern Sumatra and an exploration of some of the smaller islands, I had the good fortune to meet with both these families, and was much surprised to find that neither knew of the other's existence, though their estates were separated only by a wide bayou, running not very far inland.

This state of things I determined to remedy on the earliest opportunity, feeling sure that these "strangers in a strange land" would be greatly pleased to make each other's acquaintance.

The Moonbays had but one child, a small boy of sixteen, while the Sherwoods were the happy parents of two charming little girls, the elder named Lillian and the younger, Lulu.

Many years ago, while making a prolonged stay in southern Sumatra and an exploration of some of the smaller islands, I had the good fortune to meet with both these families, and was much surprised to find that neither knew of the other's existence, though their estates were separated only by a wide bayou, running not very far inland.

This state of things I determined to remedy on the earliest opportunity, feeling sure that these "strangers in a strange land" would be greatly pleased to make each other's acquaintance.

The Moonbays had but one child, a small boy of sixteen, while the Sherwoods were the happy parents of two charming little girls, the elder named Lillian and the younger, Lulu.

Many years ago, while making a prolonged stay in southern Sumatra and an exploration of some of the smaller islands, I had the good fortune to meet with both these families, and was much surprised to find that neither knew of the other's existence, though their estates were separated only by a wide bayou, running not very far inland.

This state of things I determined to remedy on the earliest opportunity, feeling sure that these "strangers in a strange land" would be greatly pleased to make each other's acquaintance.

The Moonbays had but one child, a small boy of sixteen, while the Sherwoods were the happy parents of two charming little girls, the elder named Lillian and the younger, Lulu.

Many years ago, while making a prolonged stay in southern Sumatra and an exploration of some of the smaller islands, I had the good fortune to meet with both these families, and was much surprised to find that neither knew of the other's existence, though their estates were separated only by a wide bayou, running not very far inland.

This state of things I determined to remedy on the earliest opportunity, feeling sure that these "strangers in a strange land" would be greatly pleased to make each other's acquaintance.

The Moonbays had but one child, a small boy of sixteen, while the Sherwoods were the happy parents of two charming little girls, the elder named Lillian and the younger, Lulu.

Many years ago, while making a prolonged stay in southern Sumatra and an exploration of some of the smaller islands, I had the good fortune to meet with both these families, and was much surprised to find that neither knew of the other's existence, though their estates were separated only by a wide bayou, running not very far inland.

This state of things I determined to remedy on the earliest opportunity, feeling sure that these "strangers in a strange land" would be greatly pleased to make each other's acquaintance.

The Moonbays had but one child, a small boy of sixteen, while the Sherwoods were the happy parents of two charming little girls, the elder named Lillian and the younger, Lulu.

Many years ago, while making a prolonged stay in southern Sumatra and an exploration of some of the smaller islands, I had the good fortune to meet with both these families, and was much surprised to find that neither knew of the other's existence, though their estates were separated only by a wide bayou, running not very far inland.

This state of things I determined to remedy on the earliest opportunity, feeling sure that these "strangers in a strange land" would be greatly pleased to make each other's acquaintance.

The Moonbays had but one child, a small boy of sixteen, while the Sherwoods were the happy parents of two charming little girls, the elder named Lillian and the younger, Lulu.

glossy black, extending from the head to the tail, and last, long and covered by dark hairs, not greatly dissimilar to those of the American raccoon. The creature's legs are singularly powerful and its talons long and sharp, so that, if so inclined, it can prove a terrible foe to man or beast though it usually preys, it was told, upon small birds and insects.

For it made for his head a most excellent crest, which it raised when it was in the sun's heat, and which it did not lower again.

There's many a rush, but its broad leaf was green,

And was plucked by a pilgrim with heart full of praise.

For it saved him from death in the desert with sand.

There's many a rush, but its broad leaf was green,

And was plucked by a pilgrim with heart full of praise.

For it saved him from death in the desert with sand.

There's many a rush, but its broad leaf was green,

And was plucked by a pilgrim with heart full of praise.

For it saved him from death in the desert with sand.

There's many a rush, but its broad leaf was green,

And was plucked by a pilgrim with heart full of praise.

For it saved him from death in the desert with sand.

There's many a rush, but its broad leaf was green,

And was plucked by a pilgrim with heart full of praise.

For it saved him from death in the desert with sand.

There's many a rush, but its broad leaf was green,

And was plucked by a pilgrim with heart full of praise.

For it saved him from death in the desert with sand.

There's many a rush, but its broad leaf was green,

And was plucked by a pilgrim with heart full of praise.

For it saved him from death in the desert with sand.

There's many a rush, but its broad leaf was green,

And was plucked by a pilgrim with heart full of praise.

For it saved him from death in the desert with sand.

There's many a rush, but its broad leaf was green,

And was plucked by a pilgrim with heart full of praise.

For it saved him from death in the desert with sand.

There's many a rush, but its broad leaf was green,

And was plucked by a pilgrim with heart full of praise.

For it saved him from death in the desert with sand.

There's many a rush, but its broad leaf was green,

And was plucked by a pilgrim with heart full of praise.

For it saved him from death in the desert with sand.

There's many a rush, but its broad leaf was green,

And was plucked by a pilgrim with heart full of praise.

For it saved him from death in the desert with sand.

There's many a rush, but its broad leaf was green,

And was plucked by a pilgrim with heart full of praise.

For it saved him from death in the desert with sand.

There's many a rush, but its broad leaf was green,

And was plucked by a pilgrim with heart full of praise.

For it saved him from death in the desert with sand.

There's many a rush, but its broad leaf was green,

<p

WALKER,

LOCAL NEWS

oils and supplies
sewing machines &at Prince & Son's, at Walker & O
you count next Mond
H. Cossitt, Deuts
the dented, i and such at Walker
of Coin's Hearing's
impres
A. Dewey
mentments, the lateThomas Bros.
and cold drinks.only meeting at
and Sunday.than thirty teachers and Friday and Saturday.apistry at the Bapti
she has been comp
should see those lov
His Loving's.Loving has lovely n received.M. James will spe Saturday night, June 1all places on screen ing elsewhere.

A. Dewey

Kevs has qualifie

d. J. H. Adams has money and buy your

A. Dewey

Hard has his one h

attorney engaged in opposition papers were

and it has been the Missouri prison
in holding limb

W. C. Gray

local of the white
room for sale price $

A. Dewey &

writer for side a poney n
and will work any on hand.

Thomas J

athalon Davis was
by living his pension
about $100 the first th

day morning Messrs. Bi from Harold came a warrant issued c

Tabor with a broad
They report that he i

a couple of days Sand

J. A. Neely spent two days last week, visit the Heirs. He has been kept by messes in his family for weeks but now hopes to see t

the officers of the district.

Sam Hazel, a negro who stole up to a year ago, was between Blackburn and Shaw last Friday evening. He is a fine horse, which cost him b

George Ledger.

best gardener in the co
lard. He has transfor appearance of the thing of real beauty,
it produce that whic
and very valuable alsoA. Dewey is perfecting for putting up a big Henderson. Mr. J led by mill men to be villers in Southern Ki
he regretted that he Marion.few nights ago a burglar of private reside
ston and helped himself
ants of the pockets of t of his victim. Among mates was Mr. S. Hodg
of this place.veral persons left Tue
the Republican State at Louisville. Amon
Dr. W. J. Deboe, W. J
H. A. Haynes, Jno. T.
D. Haynes, O. S. Young
Milt Bahns.John Parr and Bob Brown
the story that a
y barnier has been set and fortifying against by wrapping a piece
around the not of ea
that was put in the grouMr. Thomas' music class management, will give a at the School Hom
Friday, June 7. A program has been prepared and the public ne
don't expect something good invited.contract to pay in either money he chooses
the law of trade, the law of fairness, the law of sound business that he might have option still belong to the debtor and not the creditor. If I owe you a thousand dollars, it is I who should have the option, if I who should have the right to say whether I will pay you in one or the other of the lawful money of this country. If the option is given to pay a debt either in silver or gold, with either a thousand dollars of gold or a thousand dollars of silver? But would it not have been fairer still if the Secretary, after telling you that, should have gone a little further and told you that between 1792 and 1800, $100,000,000 more of honest silver had come into this country—Spanish, Mexican and Canadian coin—and been added to the money of the people? Would it not have been more fair if the Secretary had added that the American Congress had passed a law making legal tender these one hundred millions of foreign—Spanish, Mexican and Canadian silver, which was equivalent to what you gave to the gold advocates?
Would it not have been a fairer statement if instead of telling the people that eight millions of silver had been furnished to you from 1792 to 1813, if he had told you that $200,000,000 of silver had been put afloat in this country and made legal tender
by the law of the land? That is not all I wish it were. He tells you that you must willingly accept the gold standard, because it is a sound, responsible and honest standard.
It is claimed to belong to the debtor, and then they say you must keep the silver and gold at an equality of value. How can I when you give the right of option to the man to whom the debt is due who demands the dearest metal? That increases the demand for gold and lessens the price of gold;
and the gold advances its value and the silver and sends the price of silver downward, and you have still wider apart in value the two money metals in the country.
But when you give the right of option to the man who pays the debt, either answers his purpose. He at once says give me thousand dollars in silver. It is my coin as we have seen, and the money of the people. By giving that right of option
to favor of the debtor you maintain the
equality in value between the metals by
increasing the demand for the cheaper
metal and lessening the demand for the
dearer metal. About a proposition as plain
as that there can be no controversy.But it does not stand. He says
notwithstanding he was maintaining by any
means possible, I challenge the statement for lack
of correctness. It is not true. He slips
history in the face who makes the statement. The history of the world shows that
from 1803 to 1815 France did maintain
successfully bimetallism in its trust and
broadest sense. In the French revolution
ever so great a country could have had
over ten terms of value. History of our
own country refutes his statement.
The history of this people shows that from 1792
down to 1825 when the Republican Congress, by more than a two-thirds Republican majority in both houses, at the dead
hour of midnight, without warning to the world, struck silver down! We make foreign transactions without either gold or silver. We settled our debts in trade
as we did in the days of our fathers, get
gold or silver. By giving that right of option
to favor of the debtor you maintain the
equality in value between the metals by
increasing the demand for the cheaper
metal and lessening the demand for the
dearer metal. About a proposition as plain
as that there can be no controversy.But it does not stand. He says
notwithstanding he was maintaining by any
means possible, I challenge the statement for lack
of correctness. It is not true. He slips
history in the face who makes the statement. The history of the world shows that
from 1803 to 1815 France did maintain
successfully bimetallism in its trust and
broadest sense. In the French revolution
ever so great a country could have had
over ten terms of value. History of our
own country refutes his statement.
The history of this people shows that from 1792
down to 1825 when the Republican Con-
gress, by more than a two-thirds Republican majority in both houses, at the dead
hour of midnight, without warning to the
world, struck silver down!We make foreign transactions without either gold or
silver. We settle our debts in trade
as we did in the days of our fathers, get
gold or silver. By giving that right of option
to favor of the debtor you maintain the
equality in value between the metals by
increasing the demand for the cheaper
metal and lessening the demand for the
dearer metal. About a proposition as plain
as that there can be no controversy.But it does not stand. He says
notwithstanding he was maintaining by any
means possible, I challenge the statement for lack
of correctness. It is not true. He slips
history in the face who makes the statement. The history of the world shows that
from 1803 to 1815 France did maintain
successfully bimetallism in its trust and
broadest sense. In the French revolution
ever so great a country could have had
over ten terms of value. History of our
own country refutes his statement.
The history of this people shows that from 1792
down to 1825 when the Republican Con-
gress, by more than a two-thirds Republican majority in both houses, at the dead
hour of midnight, without warning to the
world, struck silver down!We make foreign transactions without either gold or
silver. We settle our debts in trade
as we did in the days of our fathers, get
gold or silver. By giving that right of option
to favor of the debtor you maintain the
equality in value between the metals by
increasing the demand for the cheaper
metal and lessening the demand for the
dearer metal. About a proposition as plain
as that there can be no controversy.But it does not stand. He says
notwithstanding he was maintaining by any
means possible, I challenge the statement for lack
of correctness. It is not true. He slips
history in the face who makes the statement. The history of the world shows that
from 1803 to 1815 France did maintain
successfully bimetallism in its trust and
broadest sense. In the French revolution
ever so great a country could have had
over ten terms of value. History of our
own country refutes his statement.
The history of this people shows that from 1792
down to 1825 when the Republican Con-
gress, by more than a two-thirds Republican majority in both houses, at the dead
hour of midnight, without warning to the
world, struck silver down!We make foreign transactions without either gold or
silver. We settle our debts in trade
as we did in the days of our fathers, get
gold or silver. By giving that right of option
to favor of the debtor you maintain the
equality in value between the metals by
increasing the demand for the cheaper
metal and lessening the demand for the
dearer metal. About a proposition as plain
as that there can be no controversy.But it does not stand. He says
notwithstanding he was maintaining by any
means possible, I challenge the statement for lack
of correctness. It is not true. He slips
history in the face who makes the statement. The history of the world shows that
from 1803 to 1815 France did maintain
successfully bimetallism in its trust and
broadest sense. In the French revolution
ever so great a country could have had
over ten terms of value. History of our
own country refutes his statement.
The history of this people shows that from 1792
down to 1825 when the Republican Con-
gress, by more than a two-thirds Republican majority in both houses, at the dead
hour of midnight, without warning to the
world, struck silver down!We make foreign transactions without either gold or
silver. We settle our debts in trade
as we did in the days of our fathers, get
gold or silver. By giving that right of option
to favor of the debtor you maintain the
equality in value between the metals by
increasing the demand for the cheaper
metal and lessening the demand for the
dearer metal. About a proposition as plain
as that there can be no controversy.But it does not stand. He says
notwithstanding he was maintaining by any
means possible, I challenge the statement for lack
of correctness. It is not true. He slips
history in the face who makes the statement. The history of the world shows that
from 1803 to 1815 France did maintain
successfully bimetallism in its trust and
broadest sense. In the French revolution
ever so great a country could have had
over ten terms of value. History of our
own country refutes his statement.
The history of this people shows that from 1792
down to 1825 when the Republican Con-
gress, by more than a two-thirds Republican majority in both houses, at the dead
hour of midnight, without warning to the
world, struck silver down!We make foreign transactions without either gold or
silver. We settle our debts in trade
as we did in the days of our fathers, get
gold or silver. By giving that right of option
to favor of the debtor you maintain the
equality in value between the metals by
increasing the demand for the cheaper
metal and lessening the demand for the
dearer metal. About a proposition as plain
as that there can be no controversy.But it does not stand. He says
notwithstanding he was maintaining by any
means possible, I challenge the statement for lack
of correctness. It is not true. He slips
history in the face who makes the statement. The history of the world shows that
from 1803 to 1815 France did maintain
successfully bimetallism in its trust and
broadest sense. In the French revolution
ever so great a country could have had
over ten terms of value. History of our
own country refutes his statement.
The history of this people shows that from 1792
down to 1825 when the Republican Con-
gress, by more than a two-thirds Republican majority in both houses, at the dead
hour of midnight, without warning to the
world, struck silver down!We make foreign transactions without either gold or
silver. We settle our debts in trade
as we did in the days of our fathers, get
gold or silver. By giving that right of option
to favor of the debtor you maintain the
equality in value between the metals by
increasing the demand for the cheaper
metal and lessening the demand for the
dearer metal. About a proposition as plain
as that there can be no controversy.But it does not stand. He says
notwithstanding he was maintaining by any
means possible, I challenge the statement for lack
of correctness. It is not true. He slips
history in the face who makes the statement. The history of the world shows that
from 1803 to 1815 France did maintain
successfully bimetallism in its trust and
broadest sense. In the French revolution
ever so great a country could have had
over ten terms of value. History of our
own country refutes his statement.
The history of this people shows that from 1792
down to 1825 when the Republican Con-
gress, by more than a two-thirds Republican majority in both houses, at the dead
hour of midnight, without warning to the
world, struck silver down!We make foreign transactions without either gold or
silver. We settle our debts in trade
as we did in the days of our fathers, get
gold or silver. By giving that right of option
to favor of the debtor you maintain the
equality in value between the metals by
increasing the demand for the cheaper
metal and lessening the demand for the
dearer metal. About a proposition as plain
as that there can be no controversy.But it does not stand. He says
notwithstanding he was maintaining by any
means possible, I challenge the statement for lack
of correctness. It is not true. He slips
history in the face who makes the statement. The history of the world shows that
from 1803 to 1815 France did maintain
successfully bimetallism in its trust and
broadest sense. In the French revolution
ever so great a country could have had
over ten terms of value. History of our
own country refutes his statement.
The history of this people shows that from 1792
down to 1825 when the Republican Con-
gress, by more than a two-thirds Republican majority in both houses, at the dead
hour of midnight, without warning to the
world, struck silver down!We make foreign transactions without either gold or
silver. We settle our debts in trade
as we did in the days of our fathers, get
gold or silver. By giving that right of option
to favor of the debtor you maintain the
equality in value between the metals by
increasing the demand for the cheaper
metal and lessening the demand for the
dearer metal. About a proposition as plain
as that there can be no controversy.But it does not stand. He says
notwithstanding he was maintaining by any
means possible, I challenge the statement for lack
of correctness. It is not true. He slips
history in the face who makes the statement. The history of the world shows that
from 1803 to 1815 France did maintain
successfully bimetallism in its trust and
broadest sense. In the French revolution
ever so great a country could have had
over ten terms of value. History of our
own country refutes his statement.
The history of this people shows that from 1792
down to 1825 when the Republican Con-
gress, by more than a two-thirds Republican majority in both houses, at the dead
hour of midnight, without warning to the
world, struck silver down!We make foreign transactions without either gold or
silver. We settle our debts in trade
as we did in the days of our fathers, get
gold or silver. By giving that right of option
to favor of the debtor you maintain the
equality in value between the metals by
increasing the demand for the cheaper
metal and lessening the demand for the
dearer metal. About a proposition as plain
as that there can be no controversy.But it does not stand. He says
notwithstanding he was maintaining by any
means possible, I challenge the statement for lack
of correctness. It is not true. He slips
history in the face who makes the statement. The history of the world shows that
from 1803 to 1815 France did maintain
successfully bimetallism in its trust and
broadest sense. In the French revolution
ever so great a country could have had
over ten terms of value. History of our
own country refutes his statement.
The history of this people shows that from 1792
down to 1825 when the Republican Con-
gress, by more than a two-thirds Republican majority in both houses, at the dead
hour of midnight, without warning to the
world, struck silver down!We make foreign transactions without either gold or
silver. We settle our debts in trade
as we did in the days of our fathers, get
gold or silver. By giving that right of option
to favor of the debtor you maintain the
equality in value between the metals by
increasing the demand for the cheaper
metal and lessening the demand for the
dearer metal. About a proposition as plain
as that there can be no controversy.But it does not stand. He says
notwithstanding he was maintaining by any
means possible, I challenge the statement for lack
of correctness. It is not true. He slips
history in the face who makes the statement. The history of the world shows that
from 1803 to 1815 France did maintain
successfully bimetallism in its trust and
broadest sense. In the French revolution
ever so great a country could have had
over ten terms of value. History of our
own country refutes his statement.
The history of this people shows that from 1792
down to 1825 when the Republican Con-
gress, by more than a two-thirds Republican majority in both houses, at the dead
hour of midnight, without warning to the
world, struck silver down!We make foreign transactions without either gold or
silver. We settle our debts in trade
as we did in the days of our fathers, get
gold or silver. By giving that right of option
to favor of the debtor you maintain the
equality in value between the metals by
increasing the demand for the cheaper
metal and lessening the demand for the
dearer metal. About a proposition as plain
as that there can be no controversy.But it does not stand. He says
notwithstanding he was maintaining by any
means possible, I challenge the statement for lack
of correctness. It is not true. He slips
history in the face who makes the statement. The history of the world shows that
from 1803 to 1815 France did maintain
successfully bimetallism in its trust and
broadest sense. In the French revolution
ever so great a country could have had
over ten terms of value. History of our
own country refutes his statement.
The history of this people shows that from 1792
down to 1825 when the Republican Con-
gress, by more than a two-thirds Republican majority in both houses, at the dead
hour of midnight, without warning to the
world, struck silver down!We make foreign transactions without either gold or
silver. We settle our debts in trade
as we did in the days of our fathers, get
gold or silver. By giving that right of option
to favor of the debtor you maintain the
equality in value between the metals by
increasing the demand for the cheaper
metal and lessening the demand for the
dearer metal. About a proposition as plain
as that there can be no controversy.But it does not stand. He says
notwithstanding he was maintaining by any
means possible, I challenge the statement for lack
of correctness. It is not true. He slips
history in the face who makes the statement. The history of the world shows that
from 1803 to 1815 France did maintain
successfully bimetallism in its trust and
broadest sense. In the French revolution
ever so great a country could have had
over ten terms of value. History of our
own country refutes his statement.
The history of this people shows that from 1792
down to 1825 when the Republican Con-
gress, by more than a two-thirds Republican majority in both houses, at the dead
hour of midnight, without warning to the
world, struck silver down!We make foreign transactions without either gold or
silver. We settle our debts in trade
as we did in the days of our fathers, get
gold or silver. By giving that right of option
to favor of the debtor you maintain the
equality in value between the metals by
increasing the demand for the cheaper
metal and lessening the demand for the
dearer metal. About a proposition as plain
as that there can be no controversy.But it does not stand. He says
notwithstanding he was maintaining by any
means possible, I challenge the statement for lack
of correctness. It is not true. He slips
history in the face who makes the statement. The history of the world shows that
from 1803 to 1815 France did maintain successfully b

SUPPLEMENT.

cont to the editor from a friend.
The law of trade, the law of finance, the law of justice, requires that that right of option shall belong to the debtor and not the creditor. If I owe you a thousand dollars it is I who should have the option, it is I who should have the right to say whether I will pay you or not out of the option to the other. It is the option to pay a debt either in silver or gold, who should hold and who should exercise that option? Do you say that the creditor is entitled to it? If so, it is no option to you a thousand dollars and both gold and silver? Why, then there has been sold to the world more than there could get at home. These Englishmen and Germans are not so kindly disposed to us as to send their gold dollars here for investment simply for our benefit. They send them here because they get as much security and more satisfactory rates of interest than we get at home. Very gold is not held fast and there had been one hundred and five millions of silver dollars in this country. Now, if you take a thousand dollars and add to them a thousand dollars of gold, who should hold and who should exercise that option?

I am bound to take it on his terms.

But Mr. Carlisle says that you must not renounce silver. Because if you do the banker will take the gold and not the silver.

That is not true, but that is not true.

They tell us of the dire calamities that

are

to befall the American people if we ever pay the interest on the debt abroad, how in God's name can we ever pay the principal of the debt if that is to be paid to gold alone?

You can not do it.

They tell us of the dire calamities that

are to befall the American people if we ever pay the interest on the debt abroad.

They tell us of the dire calamities that

are

to befall the American people if we ever pay the interest on the debt abroad.

They tell us of the dire calamities that

are to befall the American people if we ever pay the interest on the debt abroad.

They tell us of the dire calamities that

are to befall the American people if we ever pay the interest on the debt abroad.

They tell us of the dire calamities that

are to befall the American people if we ever pay the interest on the debt abroad.

They tell us of the dire calamities that

are to befall the American people if we ever pay the interest on the debt abroad.

They tell us of the dire calamities that

are to befall the American people if we ever pay the interest on the debt abroad.

They tell us of the dire calamities that

are to befall the American people if we ever pay the interest on the debt abroad.

They tell us of the dire calamities that

are to befall the American people if we ever pay the interest on the debt abroad.

They tell us of the dire calamities that

are to befall the American people if we ever pay the interest on the debt abroad.

They tell us of the dire calamities that

are to befall the American people if we ever pay the interest on the debt abroad.

They tell us of the dire calamities that

are to befall the American people if we ever pay the interest on the debt abroad.

They tell us of the dire calamities that

are to befall the American people if we ever pay the interest on the debt abroad.

They tell us of the dire calamities that

are to befall the American people if we ever pay the interest on the debt abroad.

They tell us of the dire calamities that

are to befall the American people if we ever pay the interest on the debt abroad.

They tell us of the dire calamities that

are to befall the American people if we ever pay the interest on the debt abroad.

They tell us of the dire calamities that

are to befall the American people if we ever pay the interest on the debt abroad.

They tell us of the dire calamities that

are to befall the American people if we ever pay the interest on the debt abroad.

They tell us of the dire calamities that

are to befall the American people if we ever pay the interest on the debt abroad.

They tell us of the dire calamities that

are to befall the American people if we ever pay the interest on the debt abroad.

They tell us of the dire calamities that

are to befall the American people if we ever pay the interest on the debt abroad.

They tell us of the dire calamities that

are to befall the American people if we ever pay the interest on the debt abroad.

They tell us of the dire calamities that

are to befall the American people if we ever pay the interest on the debt abroad.

They tell us of the dire calamities that

are to befall the American people if we ever pay the interest on the debt abroad.

They tell us of the dire calamities that

are to befall the American people if we ever pay the interest on the debt abroad.

They tell us of the dire calamities that

are to befall the American people if we ever pay the interest on the debt abroad.

They tell us of the dire calamities that

are to befall the American people if we ever pay the interest on the debt abroad.

They tell us of the dire calamities that

are to befall the American people if we ever pay the interest on the debt abroad.

They tell us of the dire calamities that

are to befall the American people if we ever pay the interest on the debt abroad.

